

2007-08 Men's Outlook

The Arizona State University men's swimming and diving team heads into the season this fall after having no seniors lost to graduation. Headlined by returning All-Americans Micky Benedetti and C.J. Nuess, 2006 All-American Gal Nevo and 2005 All-American Lucas Azevedo, the 2007-08 Arizona State men's swimming and diving team looks to improve on their 22nd place finish at the NCAA Championships the previous season.

The Sun Devils kick-off the 2007-08 season with the annual Inter-squad Meet on Sept. 21st. The Sun Devils then hit the road to Hawai'i on Sept. 28-29. They stay on the road and head to Las Vegas to take on UNLV on October 13th. The Sun Devils open up their home dual schedule with a three meet homestand, beginning with a two day dual against UCSB on October 26-27. They then host Utah on Nov. 9 and USC the following day. The team heads to the Lone Star State on Nov. 29-Dec. 1 for their annual trip to the Texas Invite. The Sun Devils return home on Jan. 5 to host Washington. The next week, the team heads to Dallas to compete in the Dallas Morning News Classic (Jan. 11-12). The Sun Devils travel to the Midwest to compete against Minnesota (Jan. 19) the following week before heading to the Bay Area for two dual meets versus Stanford (Jan. 25) and California (Jan. 26). The Sun Devils return home for their last dual meet of the season against interstate rival Arizona (Feb. 16). The Sun Devils cap their regular season at the Pac-10 Championships in Long Beach, Calif. (March 4-8).

Sprint Free:

The Sun Devils return a group of veteran sprinters to the 2007-08 squad. Led by Steve Neuwert and Magnus Kjellberg, they look to improve on their speed and have more NCAA qualifiers this upcoming season.

"We have a good set of swimmers returning in the free sprints that have improved over the summer," says Chasson.

Neuwert returns after an impressive debut season as a Sun Devil. Chasson expects him to keep improving and qualify for the NCAA Championships in both the 50 and 100 free. After a promising summer, Kjellberg is expected to improve in both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle.

"Steve just missed qualifying [for the NCAA Championships] by hundredths of a second," says Chasson, "I have a lot of faith that he will make it this year."

Mohammad Madwa is one of the other athletes Chasson sees having successful seasons. Madwa has continued to improve and is expected to be a big factor in the relays.

Sophomores Ante Cvitkovic, who had a very strong summer, and Brian Anderson as well as freshman Miran Terzic will add quality depth in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle.

Mid-Distance Free:

A mix of strong veteran swimmers returning and talented newcomers join the mid-distance lineup. Headlined by Gal Nevo, Sean Boyle and Lucas Azevedo, the Sun Devils expect to add more NCAA qualifiers in the events Coach Chasson calls one of the strengths of the team.

Boyle comes back to the team as the fastest returning 200 free swimmer. He swam a personal best 1:37.52. Marin Naranca also joins Boyle to add depth in the 200 free after improving in the event over the summer.

Transfer Vinicius Waked is expected to make an immediate impact in the mid-distance events.

"Vinicius will be a big help in the 200 and 500 freestyle," says Chasson, "He has the fastest personal best time on the team in the 200 free."

Waked will have some fast company in the 500 free with All-Americans Lucas Azevedo, Gal Nevo and C.J. Nuess.

"Lucas is very important to our mid-distance events," says Chasson, "He scored points for us in both the 200 and the 500 free at the NCAA Championships and will be a big contributor in these events."

Although both Nevo and Nuess strengths are in the distance events, they have also scored points at the dual meets in the 200 and 500 and will help the team out in these events throughout the season.

Newcomer Adrian Kirkpatrick will also add depth to the mid-distance events as he continues to improve.

Distance:

What is arguably the strongest segment of the team, ASU returns three All-Americans

to the 2007-08 squad in Lucas Azevedo, Gal Nevo and C.J. Nuess.

"I feel pretty positive about our distance events this season," says Chasson, "We have so much depth and so much talent."

Transfer Luke Herlehy is also expected to add depth in the 1000 and 1650 free.

Back:

While the freestyle events enter the 2007-08 season strong and full of depth, the backstroke events are a little thinner for the Sun Devils. The Sun Devils return Ante Cvitkovic and Max Laney to the backstroke lineup. Cvitkovic had a very successful freshman season, capped by qualifying for the NCAA Championships in both the 100 and 200 back.

"Ante is our top 100 and 200 back returnee," says Chasson, "I think he will continue to improve and be our leadoff in the relays."

Chasson also expects Laney to continue to improve after having a year to adjust to ASU.

Junior Brandon Pierson is expected to add depth to the 100 and 200 back in dual meets.

Breast:

The breaststroke events welcome two newcomers to the ASU squad, Colin Gladys and Eddy Salcido. Chasson counts on both of them to make a significant impact in the 100 and 200 yard breast.

Chasson will also depend on the continued improvement of John Dwelley and C.J. Nuess to help add depth to the events. Last season Dwelley clocked in the team's fastest 100 breast time at the Texas Invite (56.92), while Nuess (57.47) recorded the second fastest time. In the 200 breast, Nuess had the team's fastest time (2:01.73).

Butterfly:

John Dwelley, Sean Boyle and Magnus Kjellberg all return to lead the 100 butterfly in the 2007-08 season. Dwelley held the fastest time on the team last season with a 48.73 and looks to improve on that time this season. Boyle and Kjellberg had the second and third fastest times on the team and are expected to also get faster in the event as the season goes on. Chasson also expects Max Laney to add depth in the event.

"If Max can improve, we could use him at the Pac-10 Championships," says Chasson.

Colin Gladys is also expected to make an immediate impact in both the 100 and 200 fly.

"We did not have a true swimmer in the sprint fly last year," says Chasson, "We are very excited to have Colin this year as he can help us out in these events."

While there is depth in the 100 butterfly, the 200 fly is a bit thinner. Boyle clocked in the fastest time of last season with a 1:48.88 at the Texas Invite.

"Sean has continued to get faster," says Chasson, "We will also count on John to compete in the 200 fly and add depth."

Freshman Alex Hier will compete in both the 100 and 200 fly, adding depth to the team's butterfly core.

IM:

The Sun Devils return two of the country's top 400 IM swimmers this season. All-American's Gal Nevo and CJ Nuess come back to the team after successful junior seasons. Nevo won the Pac-10 Championship in the 400 IM last season with a season-best 3:47.50. Nuess received All-American accolades in the event after finishing 10th at the NCAA Championships. Nevo holds the ASU record in the 400 IM (3:46.07) with Nuess swimming the second-fastest time at NCAA Championships last season. Both Nevo and Nuess will compete in the 200 IM as well.

Transfer Luke Herlehy will add more quality depth in the 400 IM as will Brandon Pierson while John Dwelley and Max Laney will compete in the 200 IM during dual meets.

Relays:

With no seniors on last year's squad, the Sun Devils return almost all their relays. At the helm are the three freestyle relays. After a year of experience for Steve Neuwert, Magnus

CJ Nuess, Senior

Kjellberg and Ante Cvitkovic, along with two year returnee Mohammed Madwa, the 200 free relay looks to improve on their season-best time of 1:20.29.

The 400 free relay looks to avenge last season after narrowly missing the NCAA Championships. The veteran lineup of Neuwert, Kjellberg, Cvitkovic and Boyle expect to improve their season-best time of 2:57.21 and make it into the NCAA Championships this season. Vincius Waked and Madwa could also make his way into the 400 free lineup.

The 800 freestyle relay also looks to be stronger for Sun Devils this season. Devils are returning Sean Boyle and Lucas Azevedo and look for great leg from Vinicius Waked. The talented group of Devils who will be looking to earn a spot on the 800 free relay is made up of returnees Marin Naranca and Gal Nevo and newcomer Adrian Kirkpatrick.

The medley relays looks to greatly improve with the Sun Devils strengthening their sprint-fly and breast core. Cvitkovic looks to lead off in the back stroke segment of the relay and Neuwert will take over the freestyle leg again. Dwelley, Nuess, Gladys and Eddy Salcido will be bidding for the breaststroke spot, while Kjellberg, Dwelley, Boyle, Gladys and Hier are all looking for a chance to swim butterfly on the medley relays.

Diving:

Six-time Pac-10 Men's Diving Coach of the Year Mark Bradshaw looks to returning All-American and Pac-10 Diver of the Year, junior Micky Benedetti (Rome, Italy) to lead the Sun Devils again this season. Benedetti returns to the Sun Devil squad after a successful 2007 season where he narrowly missed becoming an NCAA champion on platform by a single point. He was also named All-American honorable mention on both one meter and three meter and was Pac-10 Champion on the 3-meter and platform.

"Micky competes at an elite level yet he continues to improve," says Bradshaw, "He's going to repeat and have a similar season to last year. I think he can win all three Pac-10 diving titles this year and do well again at NCAA's."

Bradshaw also expects Billy Sweeney to continue to improve from his sophomore season and sees the junior being in the finals at the Pac-10 championships and making the NCAA Championships.

"Billy made, without a doubt, the biggest improvement from freshman to sophomore year that I have ever seen," says Bradshaw, "I expect him to bring the same energy and work ethic that he had last year."

There is a new addition to the men's diving program this year as Bradshaw will have the opportunity to coach his own son, Cameron. The younger Bradshaw comes to ASU as a newer diver as he did not start competing in the sport until high school. His coach expects him to improve as the season goes on and peak at the end of the season.

"This should be a learning experience for Cameron," says Bradshaw, "I expect him to get his feet wet and learn how to compete. For someone new to the sport, he is pretty skilled. I think he can final at Pac-10's and could make the zone meet."

The storied history of Arizona State's men's and women's swimming and diving programs includes 219 All-Americans, 57 national collegiate champions and 63 Olympians.

MEN'S SWIMMING & DIVING

In 1963, Walt Schlueter and Dick Smith were presented with the challenge of coaching ASU's first men's varsity swimming and diving team. Schlueter had coached the U.S. National swimming team at the 1950 Pan-American Games. Smith, had just been named the U.S. diving coach for the '64 Olympics. It wouldn't be long before the ASU men's program was as strong as their credentials.

Two years before he'd win gold at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, Bernie Wrightson became the Sun Devils' first NCAA champion, winning the 3-meter springboard in 1966 as ASU earned what would be its best national finish until 1982: 13th. In 1968, Keith Russell matched Wrightson with an NCAA 3-meter title of his own as ASU finished 16th in the nation.

The Sun Devils wouldn't crack the national top-20 again until two years into Ron Johnson's head coaching campaign, when – along with third-year diving coach Ward O'Connell – he saw the Sun Devils place 20th in 1977. Helping ASU get there was Blake Johnson, who with a third-place finish in the 400 IM as a freshman, became the first ASU men's swimmer to earn All-America acclaim.

Before the 1978-79 season, ASU joined what arguably had been (and continues to be) the toughest conference in the nation for swimming and diving and proved strong, finishing fourth in the Pac-10 and 14th in the nation.

Ever-improving, by 1982 ASU not only had its best national finish of all time – sixth – it also had its first NCAA champion in Andy Astbury, who claimed the NCAA 500 free title two years before he went on to anchor Great Britain to a bronze medal in the 800 free relay at the '84 Olympics. In 1983, Mike Orn added a second NCAA title to ASU's mantel, this time in the 200 free. That season (7th), and three of the next four, ASU placed among the nation's top-10.

After 18 years at the helm of ASU men's swimming, Johnson stepped aside and was replaced by Dr. Ernie Maglischo before the 1993-94 season. Among the highlights of the Maglischo era was a second-place finish at the 1995 Pac-10 Championships -- the highest ever by ASU – and a ninth-place NCAA finish in 1996.

The hero of the '96 season was Venezuelan great Francisco Sanchez, who captured ASU's first national title in 13 years with a victory in the 50 free at the NCAA Championships. The same year, Sanchez won three conference titles and joined Orn as the only Sun Devils to win Pac-10 Swimmer of the Year honors.

In 1998-99, the current era of Sun Devil swimming and diving began when Michael Chasson became the fourth head coach in the history of ASU men's swimming.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING & DIVING

Twenty-four years before the current home of Arizona State swimming and diving was constructed and named in her honor, Mona Plummer arrived on the ASU campus in 1957.

Over the next 22 years, Plummer built one of the premier women's swimming programs in the nation, attracting some of the world's best athletes and winning eight AIAW (Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) team titles from 1967-1978.

Under the tutelage of Plummer, 45 ASU women earned sole or shared possession of AIAW event titles, including relays. Perhaps the first queen of ASU swimming was Kendis Moore (Drake), who in 1968 -- the same year she finished fourth in the 100m backstroke at the Olympic Games -- became the first collegiate swimmer to win three national event titles, placing first in the 50 back, 100 back and 100 fly.

Another U.S. Olympian to help ASU in its early years was Jan Henne (Hawkins). Henne, who at the '68 Olympics captured gold in the 100m free and 400m free relay, plus silver in the 200m free and bronze in the 200m IM, was a three-event national champion for ASU in its 1970 AIAW title campaign -- 100 breast, 200 free, 400 free relay.

In 1976, Melissa Belote, the world record holder in the 200m back from 1972-74 and the American record holder from 1972-77, called upon the skill that saw her win three gold medals at the '72 Olympics and won three national collegiate event titles. ASU managed only a fifth-place AIAW finish in '76, but would rebound in 1977 and 1978 with its seventh and eighth national championships.

Not to be forgotten in this period are the efforts of ASU divers under coach Dick Smith, including 1968 Olympic platform bronze medalist Ann Peterson (Scheer) -- who actually earned '68 AIAW titles in both the 3-meter springboard and the now extinct 100 medley relay -- and Mary "Patsy" Willard (Heckel), who captured bronze in the springboard at the 1964 Olympics.

Following the 1978-79 season, Plummer stepped down. Diving coach Ward O'Connell, who had been on staff for both the men and women since the 1974-75 season, remained and was joined by Plummer's replacement Bill Rose.

The Rose era, which included ASU's only WCAA (Western Collegiate Athletic Association) title in 1979, was highlighted by Canadian Olympians Gail Amundrud and Cheryl Gibson, who had began their collegiate careers under Plummer. Amundrud earned eight national titles in her four year ASU career, while Gibson -- a silver medalist in the 400 IM at the '76 Olympics -- tallied six collegiate crowns.

The 1981-82 season, marked not only the first season for the ASU women in the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association), but also the first season under head coach Bob Gillett. The Sun Devils finished seventh in the nation that season -- Gibson's last -- but against challenging NCAA competition they dropped to 21st by 1985.

Program History

Thus entered Tim Hill, who grabbed the reins and led the Sun Devils to four consecutive national top-10 finishes. In 1994, one of ASU's finest seasons in recent history, Hill and O'Connell were honored as Pac-10 Coaches of the Year as ASU finished second in the conference and 13th in the nation.

Leading the way that season was Polish swimmer Beata Kaszuba, who claimed ASU's first individual collegiate title since 1980 with a win in the 100 breast at NCAAs. The following season, Kaszuba repeated in the 100 breast and added a 200 breast title, both in NCAA record times.

In 1998-99, Michael Chasson became the fifth head coach in ASU women's swimming history.

THE CURRENT ERA

In 1998-99, Michael Chasson became the first coach in ASU history to officially head both the men's and women's swimming programs. One year after replacing Ward O'Connell, Mark Bradshaw remained to coach the Sun Devil divers. In both cases, their impact was immediate.

Mark Bradshaw is in his ninth year at the helm of the Arizona State diving program. Over the last three seasons, Bradshaw has coached four-time NCAA champion Joona Puhakka and All-American Trisha Tumlinson. His impact on the program has been unmistakable, generating eight All-Americans, while rewriting the ASU record book in 11 of 14 diving disciplines.

In 2003, Bradshaw took two newcomers - one man and one woman - to the NCAA Championships. Freshman Joona Puhakka and sophomore Trisha Tumlinson combined to bring home three medals, including Puhakka winning the 1-meter springboard title at the NCAA meet. Bradshaw's outstanding leadership earned him the highest honor in program history when he was named the 2003 Men's NCAA Diving Coach of the Year. He was also named the Pac-10 Men's Diving Coach of the Year.

The year of 2005 brought Bradshaw even more success, as Puhakka and Tumlinson again raked in success both at the Pac-10 Championships and the NCAAs. Tumlinson brought home the Pac-10 title on the platform and was fourth at the NCAA meet. Puhakka claimed the Pac-10 titles in the 1-meter and 3-meter events as well as sweeping the 1-meter and 3-meter events at the NCAA Championships. He earned his third consecutive Pac-10 Diver of the Year award and was also named the NCAA Diver of the Year. Bradshaw's leadership in 2005 earned him Pac-10 and NCAA Diving Coach of the Year honors for the men.

Under Chasson, the men's swimming program also made a national resurgence. In 2000, ASU welcomed two-time 200 IM Olympic medalist Attila Czene to its roster and flourished, placing among the nation's top-10 for only the third time in nine years. In his only season as a Sun Devil, Czene was member to three school record setting relay teams and added two individual ASU records. Tying the world record in the short-course 200m IM (1:42.72 converted), Czene became only the sixth NCAA champion in ASU men's swimming and diving history.

2004 proved to be another successful season for the Sun Devil men, earning nine All-America honors and sending three current and former swimmers to the 2004 Summer Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. Among the Olympic participants was Chasson, coaching the Egyptian Swim Team. Three current and former Sun Devil women participated in the 2004 Summer Games, which includes three-time Olympian Agnes Kovacs, the 2000 Gold Medalist in the 200m breaststroke and school record-holder in the 200 breaststroke, 200 IM and the 400 IM.

The women's swimming program, which hadn't finished in the top-25 nationally in two years, also received a welcomed boost from Chasson with a 23rd-place finish at the end of his first season with the team (1999). The following two years netted back-to-back 21st-place finishes. With their 10th-place finish at the 2003 NCAA meet, the women secured their first back-to-back national top-10 finishes since the 1989-90 seasons. ASU placed 12th in last year's meet.

The 2004-05 season brought more success and accolades for the women's team, bringing home 16 All-America honors and a Pac-10 Champion, Caitlin Andrew, in the 100 butterfly. Andrew also set the school record in the 100 fly and 100 backstroke.

In 2006, the men's program finished 14th in the nation. They sent three swimmers (Lucas Azevedo, Gal Nevo and CJ Nuess) and two divers (Joona Puhakka and Brant Bingham) to the championships. Puhakka earned two first-team All-America honors (1m springboard and 3m springboard), Nevo earned All-America recognition in the 1650 free and the 400 IM and Azevedo earned honorable mention All-America honors in the 1650 free. On the women's side, Andrew finished national runner-up in the 100 fly.

The 2007 season continued the tradition and standard of excellence ASU swimming programs have had. The women finished 16th in the nation while the men ended their 2007 campaign placing 22nd at the NCAA Championships. Mickey Benedetti capped his spectacular season placing second in the nation on platform as well as being named an All-American in both 1 mtr and 3 mtr dive. Caitlin Andrew was named first team all-American for the third consecutive year in the 100 fly. Andrew joined Jen Beckberger, Lindsay Brown and Abra Armour in earning All-American honors in the 200 free relay. Andrew and Beckberger, along with Sara McDaniel and Carissa Abe also garnered All-American accolades in the 200 and 400 medley relays. CJ Nuess was also named an All-American in the 1650 free and 400 IM. Gal Nevo also won the Pac-10 Championship in the 400 IM.

President/Athletic Director

DR. MICHAEL CROW University President

Michael M. Crow became the 16th president of Arizona State University on July 1, 2002. He is guiding the transformation of ASU into one of the nation's leading public metropolitan research universities, one that is directly engaged in the economic, social, and cultural vitality of its region. Under his direction the university pursues teaching, research, and creative excellence focused on the major challenges and questions of our time, as well as those central to the building of a sustainable environment and economy for Arizona. He has committed the university to global engagement, and to setting a new standard for public service.

Since he took office, ASU has marked a number of important milestones, including the establishment of major interdisciplinary research initiatives such as the Bidesign Institute; the International Institute for Sustainability; and MacroTechnology Works, a program integrating science and technology for large-scale applications, including the Flexible Display Center, a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Army. Under his direction ASU has initiated a dramatic research infrastructure expansion to create more than one million square feet of new research space, and has announced naming gifts endowing the W. P. Carey School of Business, the Ira A. Fulton School of Engineering, the Mary Lou Fulton School of Education and the Virginia G. Piper Center for Creative Writing. The university has also named the Sandra Day O'Connor School of Law. Prior to joining ASU, he was executive vice provost of Columbia University, where he also was professor of science and technology policy in the School of International and Public Affairs. As chief strategist of Columbia's research enterprise, he led technology and innovation transfer operations, establishing Columbia Innovation Enterprises (now Science and Technology Ventures), the Strategic Initiative Program, and the Columbia Digital Media Initiative, as well as advancing interdisciplinary program development.

He helped found the Center for Science, Policy, and Outcomes (CSPO) in Washington, D.C., a think tank dedicated to linking science and technology to optimal social, economic, and environmental outcomes. In 2003 CSPO was reestablished at ASU as the Consortium for Science, Policy, and Outcomes.

A fellow of the National Academy of Public Administration, he is the author of books and articles relating to the analysis of research organizations, technology transfer, science and technology policy, and the theory and practice of public policy.

LISA LOVE Vice President for University Athletics

Lisa Love was named Arizona State's Vice President for University Athletics on April 23, 2005.

At ASU, Love serves as the senior administrative officer of the university's athletic program, which features 12 women's and 10 men's sports, including men's and women's basketball, golf, swimming and diving, tennis, track/field and cross country; women's gymnastics, soccer, softball, volleyball, and water polo; baseball, football and wrestling.

In 2006-07 ASU finished 10th in the NACDA Directors' Cup Standings, a national ranking of all Division IA institutions.

Love is responsible for the management and development of one of the finest and most comprehensive athletic physical plants in the nation at ASU, playing host to nearly 1 million patrons each year. ASU's athletic staff includes more than 160 full and part-time coaches and administrative and support personnel who provide services to about 500 student-athletes.

Love chaired the Pac-10 Conference's Athletic Director's Revenue Sharing Committee in 2006-07 and actively participates in both Teach for America and Read for America, which requires teaching and reading to seventh and eighth-graders at C.J. Jorgensen School and Copper King Elementary School.

In the short time she has been presiding over the affairs of the ASU Athletic Department, Love has already established herself as one of the rising administrators in the country.

Love's ability to lead was evident right from the start. She had been on the job a little more than two months (officially began July 1, 2005) when ASU had to move its scheduled football game with LSU from Baton Rouge, La., to Tempe – in less than a week's time – because of the devastation caused by Hurricane Katrina in the state of Louisiana. In the end, $1 million dollars was raised through ticket sales from the game to assist with the Hurricane relief effort.

One of only six female athletic directors out of 119 at Division I Schools with football, Love has taken important steps since her appointment to ensure that ASU remains one of the premier athletic programs in the country. Receiving contract extensions in the last year have been head women's basketball coach Charli Turner Thorne (two Pac-10 Championships, five NCAA Tournament appearances and an Elite Eight appearance in 2007); head baseball coach Pat Murphy (five top 12 finishes in the last 11 years and two College World Series appearances); head women's tennis coach Sheila McNerney and women's golf coach Melissa Luellen.

In addition, Love was praised around the country for the hiring of veteran football coach Dennis Erickson, the 11th-winningest active coach in the nation and two-time national champion, and North Carolina State's Herb Sendek (12 postseason appearances in 14 seasons as a head coach) to guide the ASU men's basketball program. She also hired Kevin Boyd to coach the women's soccer program after leading California to eight NCAA appearances in the past 10 seasons.

"In a year of challenge, change and choice, Lisa Love has confirmed our wisdom in selecting her to lead one of the nation's great athletic programs," Arizona State President Michael Crow said. "She is setting the bar high, both for athletic and academic performance. She has demonstrated strategic skill in hiring, retaining and developing an exceptional athletic staff. Her vision and personal leadership skills are laying a foundation for sustained success."

Love came to ASU from the University of Southern California where she had been since 1989 as head women's volleyball coach (1989-98) and administrator (1991-2005). After leaving the coaching ranks following the 1998 season, Love devoted herself to administration full-time eventually ascending to the position of Senior Associate Athletic Director in 2002.

At ASU Love handled the day-to-day supervision of eight sports – including women's basketball, volleyball, tennis and men's and women's swimming and diving – and monitored all women's sports at the university. She was active in the athletic department's strategic planning, gender equity, civil rights and NCAA certification issues and she served on the NCAA Management Council. She also served two stints (1992 - 1993 and 2001 - 2002) as vice president of the Pacific-10 Conference.

As a coach, Love was a master teacher at the pinnacle of her profession. She compiled an impressive 404-171 as a college head coach for 17 seasons at Texas Arlington (199-78 from 1982-88) and USC (205-93 from 1989-98). At USC, she led the Trojans to nine NCAA tournament berths and eight finishes in the national Top 15. She was selected as the Pac-10 Co-Coach of the Year in 1997. She was national Coach of the Year in 1988 when Arlington went 30-4 and fell one win shy of the Final Four.

Love served as president of the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) from 1997-98 and as the chair of the NCAA Division I Volleyball Committee. She worked on the AVCA All-America committee from 1987-89 and was a legislative representative to the AVCA Board from 1992-94. In 2005, Love was inducted into the AVCA Hall of Fame.

To Wear the Maroon and Gold

To most of us, it's something we do without thinking when we're heading to the game. But for more than 550 ASU student-athletes, it means something much more. When all is said and done, a four-year letterman will have given over 1600 hours on the field of competition, 1600 hours in the weight room, 1776 hours in the classroom, and another 1600 hours in study hall. That's over 6500 hours of their college career they will have given for the opportunity to wear the Maroon and Gold.

They gladly make these sacrifices because they share in their hearts a burning desire to be champions. Not just champions on the field, but champions in the classroom and most importantly, champions in the game of life. For even after the final whistle has blown, these young men and women will always be Sun Devils.

Your gifts allow them the ability to wear the Maroon and Gold for only four seasons, but the lessons they learn will last a lifetime.
