2005 ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL PRESEASON PROSPECTUS

• 2005 OUTLOOK •

Head coach Dirk Koetter knew that the 2004 Sun Devils were skilled enough and fast enough. The question Koetter wanted answered was whether they were tough enough.

The answer was a resounding "yes" as the team turned in a 9-3 record, including a Sun Bowl victory over Purdue. The Sun Devils not only proved their toughness but showed their adaptability, intelligence, skill and resolve, exceeding expectations that had them picked near the bottom of the Pac-10 with a third-place finish behind just national champion USC and highly-ranked California.

Heading into 2005, Koetter's fifth year at the helm, the question to be answered is whether the success that has seen the team earn bowl appearances in two of the last three seasons can be continued. Clearly, Koetter has to be pleased with the state of the program given the balance and retention in each recruiting class, their performance in the classroom and, certainly, the prospects on the gridiron. Preseason predictions have the Sun Devils ranked in the top 15 in the country heading into 2005.

"The way we were able to win the (bowl) game definitely jump-started us into this season because even after the unfortunate loss at Arizona, Andrew Walter's injury and our tailback situation, it was all pretty much doom and gloom even though we had an 8-3 season up to that point," Koetter said. "With the way Sam Keller and Rudy Burgess were able to play, the way our defense was able to contain one of the better offenses in the country and just the way our players hung in there and fought really was the epitome of what last year's team was and is a good sign of things to come."

THE OFFENSE

ASU finished last season ranked 16th nationally in total offense on the strength of a passing attack that led the Pac-10 and ranked fifth in the country. Even with the loss of Andrew Walter, who ended his tenure as ASU's career-leading passer, the coaches are excited about the prospects for even more fireworks this season.

The 2005 Devil offense, comfortable running the multiple sets used last year employing an H- back instead of a fullback, comes into the season well stocked at several key positions and showing significant promise at the rest. Koetter, who acts as his own offensive coordinator, and the Sun Devils return all but one offensive lineman and all of the wide receiving corps. Koetter also expects the return of key members of the tailback corps and the continued development of his young quarterbacks. Combined, it has the makings of another exciting Koetter-led offense.

Quarterback

Sam Keller	6-4	227	Jr.	Danville, Calif. (San Ramon Valley)
Rudy Carpenter	6-2	178	RS-Fr.	Westlake, Calif. (Westlake)
Chad Christensen	6-3	214	Grad.	Scottsdale, Ariz. (Desert Mountain)
Newcomer
Derek Shaw	6-3	215	Fr.	Oceanside, Calif. (Oceanside)

There is no question that the Sun Devils will miss the talents of record-setting quarterback Andrew Walter, who graduated and is on his way to a career in the NFL. The question will be how much. If early indications mean anything, the Sun Devils should be just fine behind center as junior Sam Keller comes into his own.

Keller, the incumbent starter, filled in nicely for Walter in the 2004 Vitalis Sun Bowl. Making his first career start, Keller walked away with MVP honors after completing 25 of 45 attempts without an interception for 370 yards and three touchdowns. He directed a fourth-quarter comeback for the Sun Devil archives, including a game-winning drive that covered 80 yards in four plays in 30 seconds. Throughout the course of the game, Keller completed passes to six receivers.

Keller's Sun Bowl performance should, perhaps, not have been a surprise. Sun Devil fans were given a glimpse of his poise and accuracy in the fourth quarter of the loss at Arizona when Keller, taking over for the injured Walter, directed the team on two drives. He capped off an 80-yard touchdown drive with a three-yard pass to Jamaal Lewis in the end zone and nearly completed the comeback with a drive from the ASU 20-yard line with 2:20 left which unfortunately stalled with a dropped pass at the Wildcat 5-yard line with just over a minute left.

On the season, Keller completed 42 of 71 passes for 606 yards and five touchdowns and just one interception. While Koetter has indicated there will be competition for the starting quarterback position this spring, should Keller emerge as the starter, Sun Devil fans will have a game-proven player at the helm.

"I think Sam can come in and do a good job. Andrew Walter was a guy who improved a lot over the three years he started, and I'm sure Sam will do the same. He's got some big shoes to fill," Koetter said. "The Sun Bowl win springboarded us into the offseason. I think our guys said 'Hey, Sam Keller is pretty good, and we are going to have a good football team next year.'"

Making a serious push for time behind center this spring will be redshirt freshman Rudy Carpenter. Carpenter ran the scout team during his redshirt year, winning the McBurney Scout Team Award in the process. He provides mobility and quickness along with a strong arm.

"I wasn't here to coach Jake Plummer, but from seeing Jake on film and seeing Rudy in high school, he is a Plummer-type of player," Koetter said. "He's not always going to look the prettiest by dropping back and throwing a seven-step drop pass, but Rudy is the type of guy who is going to scramble around and hit somebody 40 yards down the field. He's a runner and a scrambler. I really think that Rudy is going to end up being way better than most people think he is."

Senior Chad Christensen has proven invaluable to the Sun Devil program and will provide depth at quarterback and continued versatility in other areas. Christensen, who is also ASU's holder for field goals, started four games at quarterback as a redshirt freshman and played in 11 games as a sophomore. He extended himself to help his squad last season and during the spring, also seeing time at running back and wide receiver, including a team-high 91 receiving yards in the final spring scrimmage. A successful student-athlete who was a Pac-10 All-Academic selection for the third time in his career and earned his degree in finance in December of 2004, Christensen continues to be a valuable asset to the Sun Devil squad.

"Chad is the guy that you want your daughter to marry. He's a great student and already a college graduate," Koetter said. "Not only does he know what he's doing at quarterback, he can also play wide receiver. He played running back for us last year and on special teams. He's a great team player."

Derek Shaw will join the Sun Devil program in the fall as one of the most heralded quarterback prospects in the country. A 6-3, 215-pound freshman from Oceanside (Calif.) High School, Shaw was rated the No. 1 high school senior quarterback in the nation by PrepStar Magazine, and Sun Devil fans are eager for Shaw to showcase his skills.

Last year, ASU's running backs scored only six rushing touchdowns. That should be a thing of the past, however, and with stability at the position, the offense should be even more explosive. ASU's backs showed grit and determination in 2004, and with the additions on their way to Tempe in the fall, the Sun Devil running attack should be a fine complement to an already potent passing game.

Any discussion of Sun Devil running backs would be incomplete without mention of sophomore Rudy Burgess. Difficult to categorize and even more difficult to tackle, Burgess responded to Koetter's call for volunteers at running back, splitting time in the backfield and at wide receiver and making himself one of the most valuable Sun Devils of the 2004 campaign. He carried the ball 77 times for 404 yards, including a sparkling 186-yard effort in ASU's win over Stanford and an MVP-type performance in the Sun Bowl. Burgess also showed his skills at wide receiver, turning in 22 catches for 248 yards and five touchdowns. Further illustrating his amazing versatility, Burgess also returned punts and kickoffs, the latter for an average of 22.5 yards per attempt (fifth in the Pac-10).

In anticipation of his role at running back during the 2005 season, Burgess has added 10 pounds of muscle, hoping to increase his durability, power and speed.

"One of the goals of the coaching staff is to constantly work to define what Rudy's role is," Koetter said. "Some of his role is based on the health of other players. Rudy had two tremendous games at tailback for us. We thought all along that Rudy would break into the rotation as a wide receiver. The combination of tailback, receiver, slot receiver, return man...we've got to figure all that out."

Sophomore Randy Hill will also return in 2005 after an ACL tear sidelined him early last year. At the time of his injury, Hill was averaging 3.7 yards per carry, gaining his yardage with a straight-ahead, powerful style. Hill missed spring practice as he continued to rehabilitate his knee but should be ready to step right in when the team returns to the field in the fall.

"Randy is one of the best all-around football players on our team when he's healthy," Koetter said.

Sophomore Preston Jones, who missed the spring with a shoulder injury, hopes to continue to compete for playing time. Despite his 5-8, 173-pound frame, he filled in admirably as ASU's depth waned, playing in eight games with one start and averaging 3.4 yards per carry.

"Preston is a guy who came in and saved our bacon a couple of times last year," Koetter said.

Also returning is sophomore Antone Saulsberry, a converted line-backer who moved to the backfield last season. A 6-0, 221-pounder who rushed for over 1,000 yards as a high school senior, Saulsberry has decided to stay at the position and will be in the mix.

Koetter is also eager to see what redshirt freshman Price Wilks can bring to the table. Wilks' combination of size and quickness should help in his quest for playing time as he continues to learn and get stronger.

The status of senior Cornell Canidate is still unclear, although he did have a specialized surgery in the offseason to repair a groin injury that has hampered him for two seasons. When healthy, Canidate, the brother of former St. Louis Ram running back Trung Canidate, has been a valuable player for the Sun Devils, leading the team in rushing as a redshirt freshman in 2002.

Koetter also welcomes the addition of sophomores Jarrett Sayas and Aaron Lafitte. A graduate of Desert Vista HS, Sayas transferred from New Mexico State and spent last season on ASU's scout team, while Lafitte comes to ASU by way of Wabash College in Indiana.

The 2005 recruiting class also includes two exciting prospects at running back who could make a contribution this season. Shaun DeWitty, a 6-0, 200-pound freshman from Colorado Springs, is one of the more heralded players from the state of Colorado, and features exceptional speed and quickness for a back of his size. Keegan Herring, considered the top running back prospect in the state of Arizona and ASU's first in-state commitment in the 2005 class, also shows great speed and skills. Herring also won three state track titles this spring as a senior at Peoria High School.

The Sun Devils are deep and talented at H-back and tight end, returning all of the key players from one season ago in a group that will be one of the best in the country. The H-back and tight end are separate positions but are interchangeable by assignment. ASU's corps of players at the position yielded a total of 73 catches for 573 yards and nine touchdowns.

The headliners of this group are sophomore All-America candidate Zach Miller and senior Lee Burghgraef.

One of the most dynamic young players in the country, Miller was named Pac-10 Freshman of the Year after catching 56 passes for 552 yards and six touchdowns. His total catches tied Oregon State sophomore Joe Newton for most catches by a tight end in the nation and tied ASU great and current Baltimore Raven Todd Heap's school record for most catches by a tight end in a season. Miller, who also broke ASU's freshman records for catches and receiving yards, was also named to The Sporting News second-team All-American, one of only four freshmen nationwide to be awarded either a first- or second-team honor and the first Sun Devil freshman to be named an All-American since David Fulcher was named second team in 1983. The Sun Devils look forward to more production from Miller in 2005 after he recovers from off-season shoulder surgery.

"For a guy to come in and be as physical at his position, to be as versatile and as smart, and to be as productive as Zach was at his position, he's the best freshman I've been around," Koetter said.

Burghgraef brings toughness, tenacity and a firm grip on the nuances of the offense to his play. Although his on-field stats are modest, Burghgraef's contributions to the team are not.

"Lee is the iron man, the tough guy. He's the guy who does all the dirty work," Koetter said. "Lee is the guy who teaches the young guys because he knows our offense. He's a jack of all trades. He's going to do what it takes to win, and you need guys like him."

Junior Jamaal Lewis brings great speed to the position and has proven that he can stretch defenses. In 2004, Lewis averaged 15.2 yards per catch, second on the team only to wide receiver Matt Miller's 24.7. Lewis scored two touchdowns, both at critical moments in big games. The Sun Devils can also rely on the solid play of Zach Miller's older brother, sophomore Brent Miller. After redshirting his freshman season following a knee injury, Miller showed versatility in 2004 and figures to get extensive playing time this season.

Sophomore Andrew Pettes will get a chance to prove himself, while ASU will welcome freshman Jovon Williams, a 6-3, 225-pound product of Charter Oak High School in Covina, Calif., this fall.

Chris McGaha	6-1	190	Fr.	Phoenix, Ariz. (Moon Valley)
Brandon Smith	6-1	185	Fr.	Bakersfield, Calif. (West)

All-America candidate senior Derek Hagan just gets better and better. After a sensational sophomore season, he bested all of his marks during his junior season, turning in 83 catches for 1,248 yards and 10 touchdowns and setting the school mark with 104.0 yards receiving per game. Hagan's totals for receptions and yards were the second-highest in Sun Devil history, trailing only Shaun McDonald's 2002 season marks of 87 catches and 1,405 yards. One of 11 semifinalists for the Biletnikoff Award last season, he heads into his senior campaign with 2,729 career yards which is third on the ASU career list, while he needs just 264 yards to tie John Jefferson's career total of 2,993 from 1974-77. He should also set ASU's career marks for receptions and receiving touchdowns this season.

Hagan has already been named a preseason Playboy All-American for 2005 and brings the nation's second-longest streak of games with at least one reception (29 games) into the 2005 season. Not one to rest on his laurels, Hagan has a chance to end his career as one of the best wide receivers in Pac-10 history.

"If Derek stays healthy, he'll shatter a lot of the career records. He's got a lot of them already. Everything Derek gets, he deserves," Koetter said. "Derek has had his best offseason since he's been here. He's the strongest and fastest he's ever been. I think he's going to put up some big numbers. I always kid Derek about not being fast enough, but he's a lot faster than people think."

In addition to Hagan, the Sun Devils also return three more top contributors from last year's receiving corps, including junior Terry Richardson and seniors Matt Miller and Moey Mutz. The trio combined to produce 93 catches for 1,438 yards and 10 touchdowns last season, led by Richardson who ended up ninth in the Pac-10 with 56.6 yards per game and earned honorable-mention all-league honors. Miller and Mutz were sidelined in the spring by various injuries but are expected to go full-speed in the fall.

"When you look at the tape from last season, other than Derek Hagan, Moey Mutz may have been the second most consistent player that we had. T-Rich did something at least once a game that made you say 'wow.' Terry is capable of making plays and so is Matt Miller. We were a little thin for spring ball, but on paper, we're in good shape at wide receiver," Koetter said.

Other contributors who figure to provide a spark in 2005 will be the ever-present Rudy Burgess and Michael Jones and Nate Kimbrough, both of whom redshirted last year. Jones and Kimbrough provide the Sun Devils with speed and size, each measuring in at over six feet tall. Providing further depth to the receiving corps will be senior Stephen Bisnett, junior Alex King and sophomore Jeff Gray.

"Mike Jones is a perfect example of how that extra bowl practice helps the young guys because he got better and better as the year went on and played his best football in bowl practice," Koetter said. "Nate Kimbrough is a lot like Derek Hagan. He uses Derek as his motivation and competes hard with him every day. Nate gave us fits on the scout team last year as a return guy as well as wide receiver."

Joining the squad in the fall are two highly touted freshmen who will bring size and skill to the position, Chris McGaha and Brandon Smith. A graduate of Phoenix's Moon Valley High School, McGaha was selected as the Arizona Republic's Big School Player of the Year in 2004 and was a pre- and post-season all-region selection by PrepStar, while Smith, a graduate of West High School in Bakersfield, Calif., was also an all-region selection by PrepStar.

The offensive linemen of the 2005 Sun Devils are a coach's dream and will undoubtedly be one of the strengths of the team. Koetter and offensive line coach Brent Myers enjoy a group deep with numbers, talent, experience and versatility. ASU returns every offensive lineman other than Drew Hodgdon (graduation), and nearly every returning player who didn't redshirt last year has considerable experience.

"The offensive line is something we're really excited about. Our goal is to get the five best offensive linemen on the field," Koetter said.

Making the protection calls at center is likely to be All-Pac-10 selection senior Grayling Love. Love is one of the most versatile players among the group, having played at each of the offensive line positions at one time or another in his ASU career. One of two players in the Pac-10 earn first-team athletic and academic honors, Love finished the 2004 campaign at left tackle but has expressed a sincere interest in playing center this season and could be ASU's starter at that spot.

"Grayling is definitely one of the best five offensive linemen on our team. His best natural position is probably center and that's somewhere Grayling wants to play," Koetter said.

Sophomore Mike Pollak, who started four games last year in place of the injured Hodgdon, will back up Love at center.

Senior Chaz White and redshirt freshman Brandon Rodd will line up at left tackle, providing blind side protection for Sam Keller and the other quarterbacks. Rodd earned a starting spot at left guard last season before tearing his ACL in the second game of the year, and ASU coaches predict that he could have been a Freshman All-American had he not been injured. White has started 16 career games at left tackle and right guard through his career.

Junior Stephen Berg will flank Love at left guard position while junior Zach Krula, a high school teammate of Love's, will start at right guard. The right tackle position will be manned by returning second-team All-Pac-10 junior Andrew Carnahan.

Backing up that group is a talented crop of young players who will vie for considerable playing time at all of the spots along the line, including redshirt freshmen Bradis McGriff, Leo Talavou and Paul Fanaika and sophomores Robert Gustavis, Julius Oriekwu and Beau Bandura.

"Coach Myers will cross train those guys," Koetter said. "We do have some flexibility and some proven players. From a flexibility, depth, experience and productivity standpoint, the O-line is probably the best position on our team right now."

The talent and depth continues to grow as Koetter will welcome freshmen Thomas Altieri, Shaun Lauvao, Richard Tuitu'u and J.D. Walton to the program in the fall.

THE DEFENSE

The 2004 Sun Devils showed significant improvement as a group over the previous campaign, having switched from a base 4-2-5 defense to a 4-3 look employing three linebackers. Under new defensive coordinator Bill Miller, who brings over 27 years of experience in the collegiate ranks and came to ASU after one season as associate head coach at Florida, the 2005 Sun Devils look to improve even more and exploit what may well prove to be their strengths on that side of the ball, the linebackers and safeties. In recent years, the defense has improved its speed and skill level, contributing greatly to the increasing success of the program overall.

"What Bill brings is a background similar to that of Brent Guy (who departed to become head coach at Utah State). That is, he's a teacher, a guy who's sound with fundamentals, a guy who relates to the players and is a disciplinarian. What he adds is a wealth of experience from all the places he's been and some excellent ideas regarding how to integrate some other things to our defensive scheme that we weren't doing. Last year being our first year in the 4-3, Coach Guy kept it pretty simple. Bill's got a lot of good ideas on how to advance that to the next level. Bill's just got to get used to our guys and figure out their learning curve."

Dexter Davis	6-2	230	Fr.	Phoenix, Ariz. (Thunderbird)
Jameon Hardeman	6-2	246	Fr.	Dallas, Texas. (Kimball)
Shannon Jones	6-2	300	Jr.	Sacramento, Calif. (Sierra CC)
Will Kofe	6-2	280	Jr.	Long Beach, Calif. (Dixie CC)

The Sun Devils lost several key members of their 2004 defensive line to graduation in Jimmy Verdon, Gabe Reininger and Ishmael Thrower but look to bounce back with a corps which might be deeper than in previous years.

"Those guys will be hard to replace, but the show goes on, and we have two returning starters," Koetter said. "Jordan Hill might have been the surprise of last season. His move from linebacker to defensive tackle is one of the best moves we've made. Kyle Caldwell is getting better all the time. He's very powerful and explosive. Everyone has such high expectations for Kyle, and I think he is going to be a great one."

Hill and Caldwell shared the team lead with seven sacks last season with Hill starting 10 games at tackle and Caldwell starting all 12 at end. Hill finished the year with 47 total tackles, including 12 for a loss (second on the squad), and had two fumble recoveries. In addition to his sacks, Caldwell showed his athleticism by hauling in an interception and breaking up four passes.

Two of the leading candidates for the starting spots alongside Caldwell and Hill are seniors Quency Darley and DeWayne Hollyfield. Both players are in their second year in the program after transferring from the junior college ranks. Darley will likely push for a starting spot at defensive tackle while Hollyfield hopes to make his impression at either end or tackle.

"Quency was a backup tackle for us last season and played through a bad elbow. I really like the work he's done in the off-season," Koetter said. "He'll be counted on to probably be a starter this season unless someone can beat him out. DeWayne is kind of a 'tweener,' between a tackle and an end. He's going to be in the mix there somewhere and had an excellent offseason."

Koetter also expects contributions from senior Mike Talbot, sophomores Brett Palmer and Mike Meritet (who moved from line-backer) and redshirt freshmen David Smith and Wes Evans. Sophomores Kellen Mills and Tyrice Thompson have both made the move to the defensive line from tight end/h-back and figure to be in the mix for playing time. Thompson is a proven special teams player who will add a rusher at defensive end.

A pair of junior college transfers, Shannon Jones and Will Kofe, will also have a chance to make immediate contributions. Jones, the younger brother of former Sun Devil standout Shane Jones and a two-year starter and 2004 all-league selection from Sierra College, figures to get an immediate look at defensive tackle. Kofe, a first-team All-Western States honoree from Dixie College, has a chance to make an impact at defensive end after enrolling at ASU and participating in spring drills.

Joining the Sun Devils in the fall will be highly regarded freshmen Dexter Davis and Jameon Hardeman. Davis was a two-time first-team all-state selection, while Hardeman was named to the top 100 in the state of Texas (all positions) by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

With two of three starters and almost every backup returning from last season's squad, Koetter is confident that ASU's linebacking corps will be the strength of the defense. Last season, starters Dale Robinson, Jamar Williams and Justin Burks formed one of the most effective groups in the conference, finishing 1-2-3 on the team in tackles. All three players were early-season candidates for the Butkus Award and all three earned honorable-mention All-Pac-10 honors. With Robinson and Williams returning for their senior seasons, there is little doubt that the group should pick up where they left off this year under the guidance of first-year linebackers coach and defensive coordinator Bill Miller.

"The hardest part with a new linebackers coach and defensive coordinator is there's going to be some growing pains as guys adjust to Coach Miller's system and he figures out who plays best where. Some of that is learning style," Koetter said. "How fast can they learn it? One thing you can be sure of. Jamar Williams and Dale Robinson are going to play a lot of football."

Robinson, nicknamed "Manimal" for his punishing hits, was a particular surprise in 2004, arriving as a junior college transfer and promptly putting an iron grip on starting at the SAM (strong side) position. He went on to compile 93 tackles (second only to Burks' 95). Thirteen of his stops were for a loss, while he also recorded 4.5 sacks and an interception. Robinson stands as an early favorite for All-Pac-10 honors this year as he moves to the middle to take over for the departed Burks.

Williams recorded 81 total tackles, which ranked third on the team, including 6.5 for a loss, and added two sacks and three interceptions (second on the team). He looks to acquire some postseason hardware as well as he applies his considerable talent on the strong side. According to Koetter, Williams had a strong offseason and will look to contribute even more as a team leader in his senior campaign.

Sophomore Robert James, a 5-11 product from Maryvale High School in Glendale, has continued to improve in each season and will make a run at the starting spot at the third spot, the Will back.

Also competing for playing time will be seniors Lamar Baker, who has already earned his undergraduate degree in interdisciplinary studies, and Nick Clapp, who has continued to progress since transferring to ASU from Paradise Valley CC. Sophomores DeAndre Johnson and Mark Washington and redshirt freshman Adam Vincent will be in the mix as well as Miller figures out his rotation.

The lone newcomer to the group is junior Beau Manutai, a NJCAA preseason All-American who transferred to ASU from Dixie College where he was a teammate of defensive end Will Kofe. Like Kofe, Manutai joined the team in the spring and will be given every opportunity for playing time at the Mike backer spot.

ASU will welcome freshman Chad Lindsey to the program in the fall. A 6-0, 210-pounder, Lindsey was named first-team all-district selection last season as a senior at Cypress Ridge High School in Houston, Texas.

Cornerback

R.J. Oliver	5-9	173	Sr.	Escondido, Calif. (Escondido)
Josh Golden	5-10	174	Sr.	Westlake Village, Calif. (Grossmont CC)
Chad Green	5-10	173	So.	Van Nuys, Calif. (Birmingham)
Mike Davis Jr.	6-3	174	Sr.	Los Angeles, Calif. (Cathedral)
Myrio Davis	6-1	203	RS-Fr.	Chandler, Ariz. (Hamilton)
Littrele Jones	5-8	164	So.	San Fernando, Calif. (Taft)
Uriah Marshall	5-11	182	RS-Fr.	Phoenix, Ariz. (Brophy Prep)

Newcomers

Chris Baloney	6-0	196	Jr.	Houston, Texas (College of the Sequoias)
Grant Crunkleton	5-11	180	Fr.	Denver, Colo. (Mullen)
Travis Smith	6-0	165	Fr.	Los Angeles, Calif. (Jefferson)
Keno Walter-White	5-11	175	Jr.	San Diego, Calif. (Mesa College)

Despite being a bit depleted by injury in the spring, the cornerbacks position has a chance to be another strength of the team as 2005 approaches. ASU lost the services of two-year senior starter Chris McKenzie but received a big shot of veteran leadership and experience when senior R.J. Oliver, who has started 30 career games, was granted a sixth year of eligibility by the NCAA and will return in 2005.

An honorable-mention All-Pac-10 selection as a sophomore, Oliver was hampered by injuries in 2003 and 2004, missing all of last year after tearing ligaments in his foot in the preseason. When healthy, Oliver is one of the best "lock-down" corners in the Pac-10. He missed spring ball rehabilitating his foot injury, but by fall, Koetter hopes to that

Oliver will be able to regain the productivity he has shown in the past.

Joining Oliver at the position are senior Josh Golden and sophomore Chad Green, both of whom saw extensive playing time in 2004. Golden started all of 12 games in 2004 at corner and has continued to get better and better. He finished fifth on the team with 49 tackles and added a pair of interceptions last season. Golden had offseason hip surgery and missed spring drills but is expected to return in the fall.

Green, who played in all 12 games last season, also missed spring practice with a leg injury but should return in the fall to compete for playing time. Koetter has tabbed Green as possibly the best young corner on the team.

Also vying for playing time will be senior Mike Davis Jr. He has seen extensive playing time over the last three seasons and could be poised to make his biggest contribution yet in his final campaign. Waiting in the wings are sophomore Littrale Jones and redshirt freshmen Myrio Davis and Uriah Marshall who all received extensive reps in the spring.

ASU will welcome four cornerbacks in the fall in junior college transfers Chris Baloney and Keno Walter-White and freshmen Grant Crunkleton and Travis Smith. Picked as the No. 9 junior college corner in the country by College Football News, Baloney comes to ASU from College of the Sequoias and attended Langham Creek High School in Houston, the alma mater of ASU linebacker Jamar Williams. Walter-White was picked as the fourth-best corner in the nation by College Football News and is a two-sport star out of Mesa College in San Diego. Both PrepStar all-region selections, Crunkleton attended Mullen High School in Denver, while Smith comes to ASU from Jefferson High School in Los Angeles.

Safety

Safety

Josh Barrett	6-2	211	So.	Reno, Nevada (Reno)
Rodney Cox	6-0	194	So.	Compton, Calif. (Cathedral)
Angelo Fobbs-Valentino	6-1	196	RS-Fr.	San Mateo, Calif. (Junipero Serra)
Emmanuel Franklin	5-11	196	Sr.	Houston, Texas (Jones)
Maurice London	6-0	181	Sr.	Atlanta, Ga (Grossmont CC)
Jeremy Payton	6-1	194	So.	Covina, Calif. (South Hills)
Daniel Varvel	6-3	210	So.	Bakersfield, Calif. (Bakersfield)
Brett Nenaber	6-1	204	So.	Tempe, Ariz. (Corona del Sol)

Newcomers

Zach Catanese	6-3	215	Jr.	Redding, Calif. (Shasta CC)
Derron Ware	6-3	230	Jr.	Los Angeles, Calif. (Michigan State)

Although the Sun Devils have big shoes to fill at safety with the departure of three-time All-Pac-10 honoree Riccardo Stewart, ASU returns a number of players with significant experience and welcomes a pair of transfers who have a chance to make an impact.

Sophomore Josh Barrett has played extremely well, starting three games and backing up Stewart last season. He missed the spring recovering from a shoulder injury but should continue to emerge as a viable candidate to start at one of the safety spots in the fall.

Another early frontrunner in the battle is junior Zach Catanese, a highly touted transfer from Shasta College in Redding, Calif. In his final season at Shasta, Catanese recorded 90 tackles, 51 of those solo, two sacks, five interceptions, two blocked punts and 12 passes defended. He joined the team in the spring and is expected to be in the mix for significant playing time.

ASU will also have the services of senior Emmanuel Franklin who started all 12 games last season and was granted an additional year of NCAA eligibility. Coming back from a significant head injury early in his career and having made the switch from cornerback to safety, Franklin was an extremely effective cog in the Devils' defense in 2004. He recorded 49 tackles, including six for loss, and had four interceptions last season.

Koetter also expects continued contributions from senior Maurice London and sophomores Rodney Cox and Brett Nenaber. All three have also played a lot on special teams. Sophomore Jeremy Payton, a converted wide receiver, and redshirt freshman Angelo Fobbs-Valentino will also get their chances this season.

Junior Derron Ware, a transfer from Michigan State where he played under Coach Miller, brings a "sense of urgency," according to Koetter, and should also be in the mix. Ware played at MSU for two seasons and is originally from Dorsey High School in Los Angeles where he was a PrepStar All-American.

SPECIAL TEAMS

Special teams are the units which set the table for the Sun Devil offense and defense. Special teams are an important part of Koetter's gameplan and are managed by assistant head coach Tom Osborne.

Punt & Kickoff Returns

Rudy Burgess	5-11	181	So.	Edwards, Calif. (Desert)
Terry Richardson	6-1	184	Jr.	Corona, Calif. (Centennial)
Josh Golden	5-10	174	Sr.	Westlake Village, Calif. (Grossmont CC)
Nate Kimbrough	6-1	172	RS-Fr.	Santa Fe Springs, Calif. (Santa Fe)
Derek Hagan	6-2	197	Sr.	Palmdale, Calif. (Palmdale)

Burgess and Richardson combined to return 41 punts last season for a total of 418 yards, a 10.5 yard per return average. Returning kickoffs, Burgess returned 15 for 337 yards, Golden 10 for 228 yards and Richardson four for 115. Kimbrough has shown significant promise as a returner and could return either kickoffs or punts, while preseason All-American Derek Hagan may also get a shot.

Punter

Chris MacDonald	6-4	214	So.	Mesa, Ariz (Red Mountain)
Greg Woidneck	6-0	193	RS-Fr.	Brea, Calif. (Brea Olinda)

A Sporting News Freshman All-American, MacDonald showed strong promise in his initial campaign as ASU's punter, averaging 43.1 yards, with seven touchbacks and 16 inside the 20-yard line. He will be expected to continue his strong showing in 2005 season, perhaps fine-tuning for accuracy.

Walk-on Greg Woidneck had a very good spring while MacDonald was sidelined by injury.

Placekicker

Jesse Ainsworth	6-3	219	Jr.	Thousand Oaks, Calif. (Thousand Oaks)
Mark Merrill	5-10	185	Jr.	Tempe, Ariz. (Marcos de Niza/Radford Col.)

One of the best placekickers in the Pac-10, junior Jesse Ainsworth will handle ASU's kicking duties for the third season. In 2004, the honorable-mention All-Pac-10 selection was 18 for 28 on field goal attempts (.643) and ranked second in the Pac-10 and 13th in the nation in field goals per game (1.50). He was also one of two kickers in the league to connect on all of his PAT attempts (40-40).

Junior Mark Merrill, a Tempe native who transferred from Radford College where he played soccer, will back up Ainsworth.

Long Snapper

Jason Burke	6-2	254	Jr.	Glendale, Ariz. (Mountain Ridge)
Kyle Caldwell	6-3	253	Jr.	Scottsdale, Ariz (Saguaro)
Mike Meritet	6-1	231	So.	Greenlawn, N.Y. (Harborfields)

Junior Jason Burke returns as the Sun Devils' long snapper after having just one bad snap in two seasons. He will be backed up by junior Kyle Caldwell and sophomore Mike Meritet.

THE SCHEDULE

The Sun Devils open the 2005 campaign at Sun Devil Stadium on Thursday, Sept. 1, taking on the Temple Owls. ASU then hits the road, traveling to Baton Rouge, La., for an important non-conference tilt against LSU, who, like the Sun Devils, are likely to be ranked in the top 25 in the preseason. The Devils close out their non-conference schedule with a home game against Big Ten opponent Northwestern, whom the Devils defeated 30-21 in Evanston last year.

ASU kicks off the 2005 Pac-10 Conference schedule on Sept. 24 in Corvallis against Oregon State followed by an important home date against the defending national champion USC Trojans on Oct. 1. ASU will play host to Oregon on Oct. 8 and enjoy the team's first bye of the season before beginning a stretch of three of four on the road when the team heads to Stanford on Oct. 22.

The only home game in that stretch is a Oct. 29 matchup with the Washington Huskies, now being coached by former Stanford and Notre Dame head coach Tyrone Willingham. ASU wraps up the road swing with games at Washington State and UCLA on Nov. 5 and 12, respectively.

The Sun Devils take a breather prior to playing the Territorial Cup game against their intrastate rival Arizona Wildcats the day after Thanksgiving, Nov. 25, at Sun Devil Stadium.

The Sun Devils' Pac-10 "miss" in 2005 is the California Golden Bears.

TURNOVER TALE

Arizona State finished third in the Pac-10 and 32nd in the nation in turnover margin this season (+0.42 turnovers per game). In its last 79 games, if ASU wins or breaks even in the turnover battle, the Sun Devils are 43-5. In that same span, ASU is 4-27 when it loses the turnover battle. During that stretch, the unexpected has happened nine times: in 1999 against Washington State (win) and Oregon (loss); in 2001 vs. Oregon State (win); 2002 vs. Eastern Washington (win) and Kansas State (loss); and in 2003 vs. Utah State (win), at Iowa (loss), USC (loss) and at UCLA (loss).

2005 ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL PRESEASON PROSPECTUS

• NOTES FROM THE 2004 SEASON •

Making their second bowl appearance in three seasons, the Sun Devils ended the 2004 season in thrilling fashion, turning in a 27-23 come-from-behind victory over Purdue in the Vitalis Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas. ASU finished the 92nd season of Sun Devil football with a 9-3 record, the team's best showing since 1997, and finished in a tie for third place in the Pac-10 standings with a 5-3 league mark. The Sun Devils earned their second bowl appearance in four years under head coach Dirk Koetter and finished the season ranked 19th and 20th in the national polls. Other highlights of the season included a 44-7 rout of then No. 16/12 Iowa, the team's second straight victory at Oregon and a 48-42 come-from-behind win over UCLA.

All-Pac-10 Selections

Thirteen Sun Devils earned 2004 All-Pac-10 Conference honors, including freshman tight end Zach Miller who was named the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year. Junior offensive lineman Grayling Love and senior safety Riccardo Stewart were first-team All-Pac-10 selections, while the 13 honorees mark the most for Arizona State since ASU had 16 in 1996.

Seven Sun Devils were named to the Pac-10 All-Academic teams this year, led by first-teamers Grayling Love and Chris MacDonald. Sophomore placekicker Jesse Ainsworth and long snapper Jason Burke and Love were named to the 2004 CoSIDA Academic All-District VIII first team, marking the first time ASU has had more than two student-athletes named to that squad. Love was one of just two players in the Pac-10 to be first-team selections to the league's all-conference and all-academic teams.

Pac-10 Freshman of the Year: TE Zach Miller

All-Pac-10 First Team: OL Grayling Love, S Riccardo Stewart

All-Pac-10 Second Team: QB Andrew Walter, WR Derek Hagan, RT Andrew Carnahan, DL Jimmy Verdon

All-Pac-10 Honorable Mention: PK Jesse Ainsworth, LB Justin Burks, C Drew Hodgdon, WR Terry Richardson, LB Dale Robinson, LB Jamar Williams

Pac-10 All-Academic First Team: OL Grayling Love, P Chris MacDonald

Pac-10 All-Academic Second Team: LS Jason Burke, PK Jesse Ainsworth

Pac-10 All-Academic Honorable Mention: RT Andrew Carnahan, QB Chad Christensen, OL Brandon Rodd

CoSIDA Academic All-District VIII First Team: PK Jesse Ainsworth, LS Jason Burke, OL Grayling Love

Freshmen All-Americans

True freshman tight end Zach Miller and redshirt freshman Chris MacDonald each earned first-team Freshman All-America honors from the Sporting News, Rivals.com and the Football Writers Association of America. Miller was also named to the 2004 Sporting News All-America second team. He was one of four true freshmen in the country to garner first or second-team Sporting News All-America honors last season. Miller also became the first Sun Devil freshman named an All-American since safety David Fulcher was a Sporting News second-team honoree in 1983.

Home-Field Advantage

With a 6-0 record at Sun Devil Stadium in 2004, ASU turned in just the second undefeated (and untied) home season in 17 years. The previous Sun Devil squad to go unbeaten at home was the 1996 Pac-10 Championship team which turned in a 7-0 record at Sun Devil Stadium. ASU's 1986 Rose Bowl team went 6-0-1, while the Sun Devils have had just 10 undefeated home campaigns in the 46 seasons since opening Sun Devil Stadium in 1958. The Sun Devils head into 2005 on a seven-game home winning streak, dating back to the Arizona game in 2003. That marks the longest home winning streak since ASU won eight consecutive home games over 1996 and 1997.

Aerial Attack

Led by career-leading passer Andrew Walter, ASU's passing offense finished the season ranked first in the Pac-10 and fifth in the nation with an average of 317.3 yards per game. Walter broke John Elway's Pac-10 career passing touchdowns record Nov. 6 against Stanford and set the ASU single-season mark for TD passes with five scoring strikes Nov. 13 against Washington. Walter finished his career with 85 touchdowns, including 30 this year to break Mike Pagel's previous school record of 29 in 1981.

Sophomore Sam Keller made his first career start in place of the injured Walter Dec. 31 in the Sun Bowl and was named the game MVP after completing 25 of 45 passes for 370 yards and three touchdowns (all career highs). Keller connected on 59.2 percent of his attempts in 2004 for 606 yards and five touchdowns with only one interception.

The Sun Devils scored 35 of their 41 touchdowns through the air in 2004. ASU set its single-season passing record with 317.3 yards per game, while its 3,808 yards was the second-best showing by a Sun Devil team. ASU finished third in the league and 16th in the country in total offense at 435.4 yards per game and fourth in the Pac-10 and 32nd nationally in scoring offense with 29.3 points per contest.

ASU's Receiving Corps

ASU's offense also featured three of the top 10 receivers in the Pac-10 in 2004. Junior Derek Hagan finished the year ranked second in the Pac-10 and 12th in the nation with 6.9 catches per game, while freshman Zach Miller (4.7) was seventh in the league. Hagan also ranked second in the league and seventh in the nation with 104.0 receiving yards per game, while Richardson ended up ninth in the Pac-10 at 56.6 ypg.

Hagan's Hijinks

A semifinalist for the 2004 Biletnikoff Award, junior wide receiver Derek Hagan led the Sun Devils in receiving yards in eight of 12 games in 2004 en route to second-team All-Pac-10 and rivals.com All-America honors. His 83 receptions and 1,248 yards both ranked second on the ASU single-season receiving charts, while his average of 104.0 yards per game set the school record, passing the 100.4 ypg that Shaun McDonald had in 2001 and 2002. In his career, Hagan has caught 181 passes for 2,729 yards and 19 touchdowns. He heads into his senior season needing just eight receptions, 265 yards and six touchdowns to set ASU's career records in each category, while he has 14 career 100-yard games, which is already one more than any other Sun Devil in school history.

Hagan, who has caught at least one pass in 29 straight games, turned in 100 or more receiving yards in eight games in 2004 to set the school single-season mark. He caught nine passes for 182 yards (both season highs) with one TD in the Sun Bowl against Purdue, while he tied his career best with three touchdown catches Oct. 23 against UCLA.

Miller Time

Freshman All-America tight end Zach Miller set both of ASU's freshman receiving records in 2004. The Pac-10 Freshman of the Year and second-team Sporting News and rivals.com All-American shattered ASU's record for receptions by a rookie with 56 catches, surpassing the 32 that Derek Hagan had as a rookie in 2002. With 552 yards this year, Miller also broke the mark of 423 yards that College Football Hall of Famer John Jefferson had in 1974. Miller turned in a career-high 102 receiving yards on eight catches Oct. 16 against top-ranked USC, marking the first 100-yard receiving career of his young career.

With his 56 catches, Miller also broke Todd Heap's single-season record for catches by a tight end in a single season (55) and also finished seventh on ASU's season chart for receiving yards by a tight end with 552.

ASU's Trio of Linebackers

ASU's linebacking crew of juniors Dale Robinson and Jamar Williams and senior Justin Burks each earned honorable-mention All-Pac-10 honors in 2004. The trio accounted for 35.0 percent of ASU's tackles this year (269 of 769). Burks led the team and finished eighth in the Pac-10 with 7.9 tackles per game (95 total tackles), while Robinson was second on the squad and 10th in the league at 7.8 (93 tackles). Williams finished third on the team and 16th in the Pac-10 with 6.8 stops per game.

Burks turned in a season-high 13 tackles twice, ending his ASU career with a team-best 13 stops in its Sun Bowl victory over Purdue. Robinson also led the team in tackles five times in 2004, including a career-high 14 tackles (10 solo) in ASU's win at Northwestern. Robinson also led the Sun Devils with 13.0 tackles for a loss, turning in three in the Sun Bowl.

Senior Finale

Eleven ASU seniors saw their Sun Devil careers come to an end in 2004. ASU's seniors included TE Aaron Austin, DE Connor Banks, LB Justin Burks, C Drew Hodgdon, DT Kyle Kingsbury, CB Chris McKenzie, DT Gabe Reininger, S Riccardo Stewart, DE Ishmael Thrower, DL Jimmy Verdon and QB Andrew Walter. S Emmanuel Franklin and CB R.J. Oliver were both granted sixth years of eligibility by the NCAA for 2005.
