

2007 ARIZONA STATE FOOTBALL SPRING PROSPECTUS

2007 Spring Notes

Rudy Ranks Among Nation's Best Junior Quarterbacks

As Arizona State's starting quarterback during the past 18 games throughout his freshman and sophomore seasons, junior Rudy Carpenter has solidified himself as one of the most accomplished at his position among his classmates nationwide. Compared to other signal-callers to be juniors in 2007, Carpenter ranks second in touchdown passes (40) and pass efficiency rating (150.51), fourth in career passing yards (4,796), fifth in completed passes and passing attempts (340-of-560) and sixth in completion percentage (60.7-percent).

Career Passing Yards

	Player, School	Yards
1.	Drew Weatherford, Florida State	5,374
2.	Graham Harrell, Texas Tech	4,977
3.	Curtis Painter, Purdue	4,917
4.	Rudy Carpenter, Arizona State	4,796
5.	Chase Holbrook, New Mexico State	4,619

Career Touchdown Passes

	Player, School	TDs
1.	Graham Harrell, Texas Tech	41
2.	Rudy Carpenter, Arizona State	40
3.	Chase Holbrook, New Mexico State	34
4.	Drew Weatherford, Florida State	30
5.	Bobby Reid, Oklahoma State	26

Career Pass Efficiency Rating

	Player, School	Rating
1.	Chase Holbrook, New Mexico State	155.16
2.	Rudy Carpenter, Arizona State	150.51
3.	Patrick White, West Virginia	149.10
4.	Graham Harrell, Texas Tech	145.89
5.	Nate Longshore, California	142.85

Career Completion Percentage

	Player, School	Pct.
1.	Chase Holbrook, New Mexico State	70.0
2.	Graham Harrell, Texas Tech	66.8
3.	Chase Daniel, Missouri	62.7
4.	Patrick White, West Virginia	62.5
5.	Adam DiMichele, Temple	61.4
6.	Rudy Carpenter, Arizona State	60.7

One of the Pac-10's Finest

Carpenter also ranks among the very best quarterbacks in the Pac-10 conference, standing as the conference's active career leader in pass efficiency rating while ranking second to only Alex Brink of Washington State, who is a year of eligibility ahead of Carpenter, in passing attempts, completed passes, passing yards and touchdown passes. Additionally, the Westlake Village, Calif. native has produced seven career games with over 300 passing yards, the most among active Pac-10 quarterbacks.

Career 300-yard Passing Games, Active Pac-10 Quarterbacks

Player, School	Gms.
Rudy Carpenter, Jr., ASU	7
Alex Brink, Sr., Washington State	4
John David Booty, Sr., USC	2
Nate Longshore, Jr., California	2
Willie Tuitama, Jr., Arizona	2
Patrick Cowan, Jr., UCLA	1
Dennis Dixon, Sr., Oregon	1
Ben Olson, Jr., UCLA	1

Rudy Carpenter's 300-Yard Games

Yds.	Opponent	Date
467	Rutgers	Dec. 27, 2005*
401	Washington	Oct. 29, 2005#
381	Washington State	Nov. 5, 2005
339	Washington State	Nov. 11, 2006
334	UCLA	Nov. 12, 2005
333	Nevada	Sept. 9, 2006
304	Stanford	Oct. 22, 2005%

*-Insight Bowl; #-First Career Start; %-All Yards in Second Half

Off to an Historic Start

Carpenter followed his record-setting freshman campaign with a solid sophomore season, ranking third in the Pac-10 Conference in touchdown passes while throwing for 2,523 yards. When compared to those of his predecessors, Carpenter's combined freshman and sophomore year passing totals rank as the very best in the history of Arizona State University, exceeding the totals compiled by some of the finest athletes in the history of the program.

ASU Freshman and Sophomore Year Passing Records

	Player (Seasons)	Yards		Player (Seasons)	TDs
1.	Rudy Carpenter (2005, '06)	4,796	1.	Rudy Carpenter (2005, '06)	40
2.	Andrew Walter (2001, '02)	4,423	2.	Ryan Kealy (1997, '98)	34
3.	Ryan Kealy (1997, '98)	4,298	3.	Andrew Walter (2001, '02)	31
4.	Jake Plummer (1993, '94)	3,829	4.	Jeff Krohn (2000, '01)	31
5.	Jeff Krohn (2000, '01)	3,693	5.	Jake Plummer (1993, '94)	24