2001-02 ARIZONA STATE WOMEN'S GOLF

May 9-11      NCAA West Regional Championships
Stanford Golf Course • Palo Alto, Calif.

Coming off its third-place showing at the Pac-10 Championships, the Arizona State women's golf team returns to action this week at the NCAA West Regional Championships, being held Thursday-Saturday, May 9-11 at par 72, 6,168-yard Stanford Golf Course in Palo Alto, Calif. The 10th-ranked and second-seeded Sun Devils will be looking to capture their first NCAA West Regional title since 1997 and finish in the top five for the ninth time in 10 years. The selection marks Arizona State's 10th consecutive invitation in 10 years of NCAA regional action. This year's NCAA West Regional features 13 teams ranked in the top 50, including nine of the top 25 teams in the nation.

About the NCAA West Regional

Eighteen holes will be played Thursday through Saturday, May 9-11 beginning at 7:30 a.m. Pacific time from tees No. 1 and No. 10. First- and second-round pairings are predetermined based on seeding, while final-round pairings will be based on team results after the first two rounds. The top four scores from each five-person team will count toward the team score. Arizona State will be paired with Arizona and UCLA in the first and second rounds, going off at 7:40 a.m. from No. 1 on Thursday and at 11:50 a.m. from No. 10 on Friday.

Last year, Arizona State finished sixth at the NCAA West Regional, held at the Trysting Tree Golf Club in Corvallis, Ore., while then true freshman Jimin Kang was the top individual finisher for the Sun Devils with a third-place showing. The Sun Devils have won an NCAA Regional three times with their last title coming in 1997. Miriam Nagl was the last Sun Devil to win an individual title at an NCAA Regional, earning medalist honors in 2000 when the Sun Devils hosted the NCAA West Regional at Karsten Golf Course in Tempe.

The Field

Arizona, winner of this year's Pac-10 Championships, is the No. 1 seed in the West, followed by the second-seeded Sun Devils. The rest of the field is comprised of UCLA, Washington, California, USC, Pepperdine, Stanford, New Mexico, New Mexico State, Idaho, San Francisco, San Jose State, UC Irvine, Denver, BYU, Colorado State, Washington State, Campbell, Oral Roberts and Northern Arizona.

Eight Pac-10 teams qualified for the NCAA West Regional and account for the top six seeds and six of the top eight in that region (No. 1 Arizona, No. 2 ASU, No. 3 UCLA, No. 4 Washington, No. 5 California, No. 6 USC and No. 8 and tournament host Stanford). Washington State is the 18th seed, while a ninth Pac-10 school, Oregon, will also be represented at the West Regional by individual qualifier, Kathy Cho.

Qualifying for the NCAA Championships

The top eight teams and two individuals from each region will qualify for the NCAA Championships to be held May 21-24 at the Washington National Golf Course in Auburn, Wash. This season marks the second year that the NCAA has gone to a three-regional format. Twenty-one teams and three individuals have qualified for each regional with the NCAA East Regional being held at University Club in Baton Rouge, La. (LSU, host) and the Central Regional being held Forest Akers Golf Course in East Lansing, Mich. (Michigan State University, host).

Sophomore Jimin Kang shot a two-under 70 in the final round to win the individual title at the 2002 Pac-10 Championships, held April 22-24 at the par 72, 6,199-yard Walla Walla (Wash.) Country Club. Kang's victory marked Arizona State's ninth Pac-10 individual title and the first since Grace Park in 1999.

Kang finished with a three-day total of even-par 216 (72-74-70), which bested the nation's top-ranked player, Lorena Ochoa, by one stroke and snapped Ochoa's NCAA-record seven tournament winning
