LIFE IN THE VALLEY

With its spectacular desert landscaping and colorful sunsets, the Valley of the Sun is home to 2.3 million people and is the vacation destination for 10 million people annually.

The Sporting News named Phoenix the fourth-best sports city in the United States in 2000.

Concerts and block parties are just part of the bustling nightlife of Mill Avenue, a restaurant district that is the center of activity in downtown Tempe.

The Phoenix metropolitan area boasts over 325 days of sunshine each year with an average temperature of a balmy 85 degrees.

ASU's own Sun Devil Stadium, located on the banks of Tempe Town Lake, is home to the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl and has played host to four national championship games and one Super Bowl.

The Phoenix sports scene includes the Suns of the NBA, the Mercury of the WNBA, the Coyotes of the NHL, the Cardinals of the NFL, the Rattlers of the Arena Football League and the 2001 World Champion Arizona Diamondbacks of MLB in addition to the hometown Arizona State Sun Devils.

The Arizona State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics recently moved back into the newly renovated Nadine and Ed Carson Student-Athlete Center. The 165,000-square foot facility houses the entire athletic department and gives ASU one of the finest student-athlete centers in the country. A Sun Devil student-athlete can accomplish everything she needs to do in a given day from meeting with an academic adviser to taping and treatment to getting ready for practice without leaving the building.

2004 Volleyball Outlook

Arizona State second-year head volleyball coach Brad Saindon knew the rebuilding process would not be easy. He just didn't know it would be this challenging.

A year after going 9-18 and finishing ninth in the competitive Pac-10 Conference, Saindon has his hands full in 2004 with seven freshman and eight total newcomers on his roster.

Despite the departure of six seniors that all played big roles in the program, Saindon brought in arguably the best recruiting class in program history. Seven talented freshman, all of which Saindon thinks will see playing time this season, form the No. 12 recruiting class in the nation as ranked by prepvolleyball.com.

"We knew we had to go out and recruit hard with six seniors leaving and we had to address some immediate concerns," said Saindon. "This is a dynamic recruiting class that is very talented and very raw. They are ranked 12th, but I really think they are better than that. I can't wait to see them get out on the court and start competing together. In four years we could be looking at a very, very special group of players that we will be praising for putting ASU Volleyball back on the map."

Saindon and his all-ASU coaching staff of Terri Cox-Spann (3rd year) and Jami Coughlin (2nd year) will have their hands full with the large rookie class.

The 2004 Sun Devils feature six returning players, but also have to cope with the temporary loss of senior outside hitter Natalie Harris. Harris, who ranked fifth in the Pac-10 last year with 3.95 kills per game, tore her ACL in the first spring practice and it is unknown when she will return to the court.

"It is going to be a challenge to have this many new players to the program and have only three weeks with them before heading right into the season," added Saindon. "We have some veterans on this team that will have to really help with the learning curve and make them learn the system as the season goes on."

Saindon cites the loss of Harris as one of the pitfalls that this team will have to deal with.

"She was our best returning player and someone you can build a team around," said Saindon. "We are going to have to have some players really step up to fill in for her and it is going to be a challenge since she is such a great player."

Saindon, who coached at Colorado and with USA Volleyball and Team Australia at the international level before coming back to his alma mater last season, thinks that while this team will be young, it has the makings to be very special.

"Sure we are going to be young and take some lumps, but that is what most teams go through when you are trying to rebuild," said Saindon. "This group is really talented and really raw and I think they have the ability to turn into one of the best group of freshman in the country."

While the rookies form the biggest group of the team, the Sun Devils will still have some experience and depth to form around. Junior outside hitter Sarah Watkins is coming off a solid 2003 season and senior libero Stephanie Kohner and setter Giovana Melo are great team leaders that provide depth at two important positions.

"Everyone knows that on paper we have a lot of new faces, but we do have some quality players coming back that will really help this program," said Saindon. "Our six returning players all learned a lot last year and will help bridge the gap for the freshman when they are trying to adapt to the new system. They all bring a lot to the court in terms of attitude, experience and also have a lot of talent."

Saindon continues to advertise his exciting brand of volleyball that brings a touch of men's volleyball into the women's game.

"The brand of volleyball I bring to this program is unique and something that remains to be an experiment," said Saindon. "It is a quick brand of volleyball that is exciting to watch and is really fast."

Saindon's unique techniques include most players using a jump serve, swing blocking at the net and a quick brand of volleyball that will feature a team flying all over the court. He also says that he will use more players on the court this season.

"I think the idea of six volleyball players playing all the way around the court are coming to an end. The game is becoming more and more specialized. We've decided to have big people in the front row and small quick people in the back row. It makes sense with our personnel and also creates an exciting brand of volleyball," added Saindon. "Definitely one of the hallmarks of our team is our speed and we are going to be just as fast as we were last year, only difference is that we will also be bigger. The combination of being bigger without slowing down is going to make this team a lot better. Speed and size creates winning volleyball."

With a talented young team, the Sun Devils will have their hands full heading into the 32nd year in program history. Despite the youth, ASU has its eyes locked on a goal to make a return trip to the NCAA Tournament and finish in the top six of the Pac-10.

"Like every program, we go into the season with goals of making the NCAA tournament," said Saindon. "We want to finish in the top half of the Pac-10 and make it to the NCAA Tournament. They are pretty lofty goals, but you have to aim high. I think we can obtain them, but we are young and there will be times when we will struggle."

Heading into the season, Saindon knows forming a starting lineup will be one of the most challenging tasks. Experience may be one of the key factors in developing the team into a competitive group this season, but Saindon also feels that talent will rise to the top when it is all said and done.

"I've told the team that I am going to start the best players on the court," said Saindon. "All seven of the freshmen have come in and have a shot at starting. My guess is that many members of this freshman class will come in and contribute right away. A lot of them will be overwhelmed at first, but I think they are raw and athletic enough to step right in and make a difference."

While forming a starting lineup will be a challenge in its own right, Saindon admits that the real challenge will be trying to get this group ready for the season and the rigors of the Pac-10 season.

"As a coaching staff, we have a lot of teaching and a lot of coaching to do because we are so young. A lot of these young ladies have never been away from home and now they are in the middle of big-time college athletics. The learning curve is quite steep and I am hoping to help them make that transition go pretty smoothly," offered Saindon about the coaching challenge he and his staff has ahead of them. "I hope to get them indoctrinated into the ASU Volleyball system and start developing this team that is going to be around for the next couple of years. I would like to be able to mix in some of the new players and some of the old players and come up with something that equals winning volleyball. It is going to be an exciting and unique and potentially great opportunity and that is what coaching is all about."

What Returns from 2003:

Senior night at Wells Fargo Arena in 2002 was a bit different from 2003. While last year's team had to deal with the loss of only one player to graduation, the 2004 squad will have to deal with the loss of what seemed like the entire team. Six seniors, including five starters, are now departed. Gone are middle blockers Mandy Stephens and Jodi Smith, outside hitters Kim Mehlhorn and Juliana Escobar, setter Cheryl Anglin and libero Courtney Blocher.

"The group of players that graduated last year were pretty special," said Saindon. "They were in the NCAA Tournament twice and were great team leaders. I know they had a tough final year adapting to the new style of play, but they were tough and left a good mark on ASU Volleyball."

Senior outside hitter Natalie Harris ranked fifth in the Pac-10 in 2003 averaging 3.95 kills per game.

2004 Volleyball Outlook

Outside hitters Natalie Harris (RS-Sr., Tempe, Ariz.), Sarah Watkins (Jr., Mishawaka, Ind.) and Nicole Morton (So., Bonsall, Calif.), setter Giovana Melo (Sr., Ribeirao Preto, Brazil), middle blocker Tierra Burnley (So., Santa Clarita, Calif.) and libero Stephanie Kohner (Sr., Anthem, Ariz.) form the group of returning letterwinners.

"Our experienced players are still new to the system, so there remains some growing pains," said Saindon. "They are coming off a solid spring season and I think are growing a lot more comfortable together on the court."

Saindon also knows that he'll have to make some difficult decisions this season when it comes to playing time for some of the returning players.

"There are going to be some battles for playing time between some of the returning players and the newcomers," admitted Saindon. "It is never easy when you have to make those decisions, but I am going to put the best players on the court. Regardless, a team cannot operate with a supporting cast of players and in order to be successful we have to have everyone understand their role on this team."

The Newcomers:

Seven freshmen and a sophomore transfer form what is already considered the best recruiting class in Arizona State Volleyball history.

The freshmen include setter Rachel Mittelstaedt (Phoenix, Ariz.), defensive specialists Sydney Donahue (Manhattan Beach, Calif.) and Alison Lund (Bowie, Md.) and middle blockers Staci Smith (Gresham, Ore.), Colette Meek (Sherwood Park, Alberta, Canada), Kristin Trayser (Crystal Lake, Ill.) and Danielle Fernandes (Santa Monica, Calif.). Redshirt sophomore outside hitter Nina Reeves, a Gilbert native, transferred in the spring from UTEP.

"As the freshman grow and gain experience, I really think that they are going to be a special group and make Arizona State Volleyball very exciting. They have the potential to be the building blocks of a very strong program. They are extremely raw, but they have some amazing volleyball skills and I am excited to see them grow together on the court."

The Outside Hitters:

A year ago the outside hitter position was ASU's most experienced position, but with the knee injury to senior Natalie Harris, it becomes the biggest unknown for the Sun Devils heading into the season.

Harris' knee injury leaves a big hole at the biggest offensive position on the court. After battling through injuries the first three years of her college career, Harris had a breakthrough season in 2003. She was named honorable mention All-Pac-10 while ranking in the top five in the conference in kills per game.

"There is no question that Natalie was our best player last year and our focal point for the team this year," said Saindon. "When she is healthy she has the ability to be one of the dominant outside hitters in the country."

Harris also recorded double-digits in kills in 21 of 27 matches last season and had nine double-doubles. Almost six months removed from her knee surgery when the season begins in Sept., Saindon expects Harris to possibly be ready for action sometime in October.

"We don't know when we are going to get her back as different athletes rebound differently from these type of injuries," said Saindon. "Regardless, losing your best player for the early part of the season is not going to be easy and someone is going to have to step up to fill that void."

Up to the tall task of filling in for Harris will be a pair of returning players and possibly a couple of converted middle blockers. Sophomore Nicole Morton and junior Sarah Watkins have the potential to jump right in and start at the outside position.

Watkins (Mishawaka, Ind.) started all 27 matches and played in all 98 games last season while finishing fourth on the team with 2.26 kills per game and 0.31 service aces per game.

"Sarah is one of our team leaders in many ways," commented Saindon. "We count on Sarah to set the bar in many different areas with her work ethic, her academics and her citizenship on the team. She is also a utility player who can play a number of positions. She is one of our most experienced returning players and will be looked upon to help in a number of different areas."

Morton (Bonsall, Calif.) played in only 14 matches last season, making three starts, and averaging 1.28 kills per game. A solid spring season and her dedication to an off-season strength and conditioning program should make her a force on the court this season.

"Nicole didn't play much as a freshman and really used it as a learning experience," said Saindon. "It is likely that Nicole will be a big part of this team and she will certainly step in at outside hitter while Natalie recovers from her knee injury."

Transfer Nina Reeves also has a chance to assert herself on the outside. Reeves averaged 3.29 kills per game at UTEP last season and spent the spring with the Sun Devils learning the new system.

A pair of recruited middle blockers have also made the transition to the outside hitter position. Freshmen Danielle Fernandes and Kristen Trayser have shown enough athleticism to possibly make the difficult transition.

"We signed four outstanding middle blockers and have plans to make two of them outside hitters or put them at the opposite position," said Saindon. "This is an exceptionally athletic group of hitters and I am confident they will be able to help us form a great offensive weapon over time."

Saindon describes Fernandes as a very good jumper and a very competitive player.

"She is a tremendous athlete who is really quick and is a great jumper," added Saindon on Fernandes (pronounced Fur-Nanz). "She is a high-energy player and I think the fans will really like watching her. She has a great spirit about her and an outstanding character that will really show on the court." Trayser fits an athletic mold at 6-1 and has experience at the opposite hitter position while playing club volleyball.

"Kristin is a very good athlete who has excellent blocking and hitting instincts," said Saindon. "I expect her to be one of the more consistent freshman and come right in and contend for a starting spot."

Junior outside hitter Sarah Watkins is coming off a solid season in 2003 when she averaged 2.26 kills per game. She recorded 12 matches with 10 or more kills.

ASU Volleyball Outlook

In the Middle:

Despite a record-breaking season from senior Mandy Stephens last season, the middle blocker position was one of ASU's weakest on the court. The Sun Devils finished last in the Pac-10 averaging only 1.69 blocks per game and were often taken advantage of in the middle by the other teams in the Pac-10.

To combat the weakness last year, Saindon brought in a talented class of freshman middle blockers and expects the position to turn into a strength for the team this season.

Filling the void will be Staci Smith (Gresham, Ore.) and Canadian Colette Meek (Sherwood Park, Alberta).

Meek could be the gem of the recruiting class if her raw ability progresses like Saindon thinks it can. A member of the basketball and volleyball Canadian Junior Olympic programs, Meek has an unbelievable vertical leap and long arms that could create problems for opposing teams at the net.

"Colette is an unbelievable athlete who is still very raw. She jumps and reaches well over 10 feet and that is not something not very many young women can do," added Saindon. "We think she is going to be a great prospect and has a chance to emerge as one of the best freshman in this conference."

Smith is ASU's tallest player at 6-2 and comes from an experienced club background out of the Northwest.

"Staci is a pretty good sized middle who is very athletic and comes from a solid volleyball background," said Saindon. "She plays high above the net and as she gets stronger and more experience will become a significant middle blocker in the Pac-10."

Sophomore Tierra Burnley (Santa Clarita, Calif.) averaged 1.31 kills per game as a freshman and will contend for a starting spot after showing drastic improvement in her first year in the program.

"We are happy with Tierra's progress," said Saindon. "She had a good spring and she certainly has a chance to work her way into the starting lineup and regardless will provide some good depth at the middle blocker position."

On the Setter Position:

Any time you have to replace the second-best setter in school history, it won't be easy. Gone is departed senior Cheryl Anglin, who ended her career as a four-year starter with 4,296 assists. Freshman Rachel Mittelstaedt (Phoenix, Ariz.) and senior Giovana Melo (Ribeirao Preto, Brazil) are in a heated battle for the starting setter position. Last season the Sun Devils ran a two-setter system, but this year Saindon says he will prefer to go with only one quarterback on the court.

"Giovana Melo and Rachel Mittelstaedt will have some good competition for the starting spot and that should make that position a lot more dynamic," said Saindon. "Either way, it is impossible to run a program without a backup setter and both players are going to be a huge part of our success. It would be like not having a backup quarterback on the football team."

Melo, who came to ASU as a junior college All-American out of Western Nebraska Community College, played in every match last season averaging 5.67 assists per game.

"Either way, starter or backup, I see Giovana being a big part of this team with her positive attitude and her work ethic," said Saindon.

Mittelstaedt was the first part of the recruiting class that Saindon wanted to nail down. Described as an athletic and offensive setter, Mittelstaedt was the Phoenix Area Player of the Year as a senior at Xavier College Prep and a two-time all-state selection.

"Rachel is the one kid that we wanted the most in this recruiting class because it answered our number one concern at the setter position," said Saindon. "She is a six-foot setter who has excellent blocking skills, and that will be an added dimension this program has not had in a while."

Mittelstaedt is also the definition of a student-athlete, recognized as a prestigious National Merit Scholar.

The Libero/Defensive Specialist

A hallmark of Saindon's system is defense. A trio of talented defensive specialists will combine to make the libero position one of ASU's strongest on the court.

"We plan on using three libero-type players in our system," says Saindon. "The substitution rules in college volleyball are so liberal that I think using defense as our strongpoint will really fuel this team. Stephanie Kohner, Alison Lund and Sydney Donahue are all capable candidates and will compete to form a really exciting defensive team."

One of three seniors on the team, Kohner played in all 28 matches last season while recording 3.04 digs per game.

Donahue and Lund are exciting freshman who Saindon is very excited about.

"More and more the libero position is becoming a force in the college game, and we thought we got two of the nation's best in Sydney Donahue and Alison Lund," said Saindon. "Both are very dynamic and competitive and will find a way to get out on the court."

The Coaching Staff:

Saindon, Cox-Spann and Coughlin form a unique all-Arizona State coaching staff. Saindon graduated from ASU in 1976 and returns to his alma mater with stops at almost every level of the volleyball community. Cox-Spann and Coughlin are ranked No. 2 and No. 3 respectively in school history in career digs and are among only 11 players in school history to record 1,000 or more digs and kills in their careers.

"It is a great feature to have a coaching staff that has a link to the past of the program," said Saindon. "You always have a lot of pride in your school, but to come back and coach at your alma mater is really something special. The girls know that they can look to those two coaches and see the pride they have in the program."

On 2004 Schedule and Season Goals:

Just as in any year that the Devils have competed in the Pac-10, the road to the NCAA Tournament will have to go through the toughest conference in the nation. ASU is scheduled to play 14 matches against teams that advanced to the NCAA Tournament last year. Arizona State was picked seventh in the preseason Pac-10 coaches poll, with the six teams ranked ahead of them all being ranked in the preseason top 25.

The Devils will be tested right out of the gates with a tough opening tournament hosted by perennial NCAA Tournament participant New Hampshire. The Devils will host Fordham, Tulane and Pacific during the three-day, six-match Tempe Buttes/Sun Devil Volleyball Classic.

"The Pac-10 is the best volleyball conference in the nation. USC has won two straight NCAA titles and it is loaded top to bottom. It is our goal to start climbing the ladder in the conference and hopefully finish in the upper half of the league," said Saindon.

While reaching the NCAA Tournament is a goal of any team competing in collegiate athletics, Saindon emphasizes how important it is for his program to return to national prominence.

"The barometer of success of any team is going to the NCAA Tournament and that is our barometer. That is what I want this program to achieve every year," stressed Saindon. "We'll get there, it is just a matter of when, and I really feel confident that this group of players is going to put ASU Volleyball back on the map."

Senior libero Stephanie Kohner enters her second year with the Sun Devils. She averaged 3.04 digs per game in 2003.

Head Coach Brad Saindon

Brad Saindon begins his second year as the head volleyball coach at Arizona State University. Saindon completed his first season at ASU in 2003 with a 9-18 record. Without the benefit of his own recruiting class, Saindon inherited a team with six seniors that struggled to adapt to his new system of play.

Absent from the college coaching ranks for six years prior to starting his tenure at ASU, Saindon brings a wealth of international and college coaching experience to the sidelines.

Saindon's first season in Tempe had some memorable highlights, including junior outside hitter Natalie Harris finishing fifth in the conference in kills per game (3.95) while earning All-Fac-10 honorable mention. He also became only the second coach in ASU volleyball history to defeat rival Arizona in his first try. The landmark 3-2 victory over the Wildcats on Sept. 26 came in dramatic come-from-behind fashion after trailing 2-0 before prevailing 26-30, 23-30, 30-24, 36-34, 15-10. ASU also finished in the top 40 in the nation in attendance averaging 940 fans in home contests at Wells Fargo Arena.

Prior to starting at ASU, Saindon was an assistant coach with the USA Men's National Volleyball Team under head coach Doug Beal for two years. He arrived at his second stint with USA Volleyball after serving as head coach of the Australian Women's National and Olympic Volleyball Team for four years. Under Saindon's direction the Australian women's national team climbed from a world ranking of No. 40 in May 1997 to a world ranking of No. 14 after placing 9th at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia. Saindon also served as an assistant coach under head coach Bill Neville from 1989-1990 for USA Volleyball. His responsibilities with USA Volleyball included running and planning daily practices and overseeing the daily strength and conditioning program at the USOC training facility in Colorado Springs, Colo. He has coached in over 350 international events in 27 countries, including various world championships, world cups, Asian Championships, the Goodwill Games and many others.

Saindon's resume also includes a tremendously successful coaching career in the college ranks. He was the architect for the women's volleyball program at the University of Colorado, starting the program from scratch in April 1986.

Under his direction the Lady Buffs posted a 181-112 record from 1986-97, qualified for the NCAA volleyball tournament six times (1991-1996), were Big Eight Conference Champions in 1993, were runners-up in the Big Eight Conference five times, and captured two Big Eight Conference tournament titles (1992 and 1993). Saindon was named Big Eight Conference Coach of the Year three times (1988, 1992, and 1993).

Colorado became a perennial national power under Saindon's guidance, earning a national ranking 45 times during his tenure. The 1993 squad finished with a 26-6 record, winning both the Big 8 regular season title and the conference tournament. The Buffalos advanced to the Sweet 16 and Saindon earned his third Big 8 Coach of the Year award.

Prior to his position with the University of Colorado, Saindon was the head volleyball coach at Regis College from 1984-86, posting a career 63-28 record. Previously he served as the assistant volleyball coach at the University of Oklahoma from 1980-84. A native of Colorado, Saindon graduated from Wheat Ridge High School in Wheat Ridge, Colo., in 1972. He went on to receive a bachelor's degree in business administration from Arizona State University in 1976 and a master's degree in the scientific basis of sport from the University of Oklahoma in 1984.

He also has extensive experience in the sport of volleyball as a player. Saindon played for the Arizona State volleyball club team from 1972-1976. He also played for elite club teams in the Rocky Mountain Region of the United States Volleyball Association (1977-1980 and 1985). He made the All-Region Team each of those years and was named Most Valuable Player in the Rocky Mountain Region in 1977, 1978, 1980, and 1985. He played three years professionally in the International Volleyball Association, playing for the Denver Comets in 1978 and 1980 and the Orange County Stars in 1979.

He has coached at virtually every level of volleyball, including grassroots development clubs, junior high and high school system, elite club level, collegiate, national, and international and Olympic level. Throughout his career Saindon has been involved with USA Volleyball coaching and helping run numerous camps and clinics administered by USA Volleyball.

Second year head coach Brad Saindon signed his first recruiting class during the offseason that ranked No. 12 in the nation.

Assistant Coaches

Former Sun Devil volleyball standout Terri Cox-Spann begins her third year as an assistant coach at Arizona State. Cox, who played for ASU from 1994-97, came to ASU in 2002 after spending a year as the assistant coach at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas.

"It is great to be part of the program where I had such a great experience as a student-athlete and have the opportunity help the program grow," said Cox. "You always have a special bond with the school you played for and it has been a dream come true for me to be back here in a coaching capacity."

Cox, a native of Long Beach, Calif., is a 1998 graduate of ASU with a degree in English. She serves as ASU's top assistant, heading up all recruiting duties and on-court skill development. She joins former Sun Devil outside hitter Jami Coughlin to complete the all-ASU coaching staff. Cox will specifically work with outside hitters and defense, both areas where she excelled as a player. Prior to coaching at Texas Tech, Cox was the head coach at Xavier Prep (Phoenix) High School and led the Gators to back-to-back appearances in the Class 5A Arizona High School State Championship, including winning the title in 2000.

"Terri is outgoing and personable and those attributes will help her in her relationship with both the current ASU players and future recruits," said ASU head coach Brad Saindon. "She still has the ability to get out on the court and teach by example. Terri also brings some great recruiting skills to the program as she is still networked in the high schools and club ranks in the Valley since her successful stint as head coach at Xavier Prep High School, but also in Southern California (hometown) and Texas, which are recruiting hotbeds."

As a four-year starter at Arizona State (1994-97), Cox ranks in the top 10 in the ASU Volleyball record books in several categories, finishing her career with 1,185 kills (9th) and 1,382 digs (3rd). She is only one of eight players in ASU volleyball history to record 1,000 or more digs and kills in a career. Cox was an all-Pac-10 performer in 1996 when she recorded 441 kills (10th most in ASU single-season history) and 426 digs (7th most in ASU single-season history). Under her guidance last year, Juliana Escobar earned first-team All-Pac-10 honors. Escobar set an ASU rally-scoring record with 420 kills and 50 service aces.

Cox officially started at ASU March 1, 2002. She has a six-year-old daughter (Justine Spann) and got married last January to former Sun Devil football player Creig Spann.

Cox was an All-Pac-10 Outside hitter for ASU from 1994-97.

Jami Coughlin begins her second year as part of the Arizona State Volleyball coaching staff. The former standout outside hitter for the Sun Devils (1998-2001) was hired on July 1, 2003. Coughlin joins head coach Brad Saindon (Arizona State, 1976) and Terri Cox (Arizona State, 1998) to round out a coaching staff consisting entirely of ASU graduates.

"We are very excited to have Jami as a part of our staff," said Saindon. "She is a former student-athlete who excelled in both the classroom and on the court and is a great role model for our players."

Coughlin's vast responsibilities as an assistant coach include daily practice organization, video breakdown and recruiting.

Coughlin was a four-year standout for the Sun Devils from 1998-2001 and is a member of the ASU 30th Anniversary team. She graduated from Arizona State in 2002 with a perfect 4.0 GPA in special education. A three-time All-Pac-10 Academic selection and two-time Academic All-American, Coughlin begins her first stint as an assistant coach.

"This is a dream job for me to coach at Arizona State and continue my love for the sport of volleyball," said Coughlin. "To be honest, after I graduated I really never thought I would be coaching, but once I left I realized how much I loved the game and that is when things started to fall in place for me. I am excited to learn and to grow as a coach."

During her four years on the court at ASU, Coughlin played in every match (108) and ranks second in ASU history with 1,528 digs and sixth with 1,360 kills. She is one of only eight Sun Devils to record 1,000 or more kills and digs in a career and ranks sixth all-time in Pac-10 volleyball history with her dig total.

During her senior season in 2001, Coughlin led the Sun Devils averaging 3.56 kills per game and 3.98 digs per game. She led the Pac-10 in digs in two of her four years and recorded a double-double (kills/digs) in 84 of her 108 matches (77%). Coughlin is a native of Glendale, Ariz., and 1998 graduate of Moon Valley High School.

Coughlin ranks second in ASU history with 1,528 career digs from 1998-2001.

Aces Are Wild:

Twice during the 2003 season a pair of Sun Devils have recorded seven service aces in a single match. The seven aces served up by Sarah Watkins (8/29 vs. Utah) and Kim Mehlhorn (9/26 vs. Arizona) tied for the third most in ASU single-match history. The school record for service aces in a match is nine set by Regina Stahl vs. New Mexico in 1984. The performances by Mehlhorn and Watkins both established records under the rally scoring format. For the season, ASU finished third in the Pac-10 averaging 1.69 aces per game (166 total).

Stephens Sets School Record:

Senior middle blocker Mandy Stephens (Napa, Calif.) broke the single-season hitting percentage record with a .383 mark. She ranked fifth in the Pac-10 and 13th in the NCAA. She broke the old ASU single-season record set by Julia Leddy in 2002 with a .367 attack percentage. Stephens made only 52 hitting errors on 462 total attacks. She was named the tournament MVP of the SMU Radisson Volleyball classic held Sept. 12-13 in Dallas. She recorded 10 or more kills in 11 matches and had a hitting percentage over .500 in nine matches. Stephens finished her senior season averaging 2.34 kpg and 0.66 blocks per game.

ASU Single-Season Hitting Percentage:

1. Mandy Stephens, 2003 .383
2. Julia Leddy, 2002 .367
3. Tammy Webb, 1985 .353

Libero Courtney Blocher led the team and ranked fourth in the Pac-10 averaging 3.50 digs per game. She finished her career ranked 10th in ASU history with 1,173 career digs.

HISTORY

ASU Volleyball History

Arizona State University's women's volleyball program celebrates its 32nd anniversary in 2004 with the academic and athletic success that have taken many programs many decades to achieve on the national level.

The Sun Devils initiated the program in fine style in 1973, when they captured the first-ever Intermountain Conference championship. ASU finished the season ranked 15th nationally under the guidance of head coach Mary Littlewood. At that time, Littlewood also handled head softball and basketball coaching duties. The following season saw the Sun Devils finish second in the conference en route to another top 20 national ranking (19th) in the final AIAW poll.

Throughout the 1970s, Arizona State played solid, fundamental volleyball and finished among the upper division in the Intermountain Conference on a regular basis.

Joanie Smith was ASU's first volleyball star, as she garnered all-conference honors in 1976. The likes of Nancy Corea, Sheri Lobb and Donna Stuhr further helped ASU establish itself on the national scene during the '70s.

Dale Flickinger, ASU's second volleyball coach (1979-82), elevated the program and developed it into one of the nation's up-and-coming programs. The 1979 season also marked the debut of a new conference for the Sun Devils — the Western Collegiate Athletic Association (WCAA).

The 1980 campaign saw the entrance of Lisa Stuck and Terri Edison, and the tandem helped ASU to its initial 20-win season (24-17). Stuck became Arizona State's first all-America performer due to her explosive and powerful offensive skills. She ranks among the career kill and service ace leaders, and still owns the school mark for most kills in a match (35).

The Debbie Brown Era (1983-88) allowed the Sun Devils to move into the nation's top 10 and produce such All-Americans as Tammy Webb, Regina Stahl and Christy Nore.

Brown, a member of the 1980 U.S. Olympic team and assistant coach on the '88 U.S. Olympic squad, made stellar defensive skills

Former Sun Devil All-American Christy Nore (1985-88) led the country in digs and ranked among the top 20 in kills in 1988. She was elected to the ASU Hall of Fame in 2002.

commonplace in the Sun Devil program. Brown is currently the head coach at the University of Notre Dame.

Excellence in the setter position has been synonymous with ASU volleyball for most of the program's life. Joan Oakley began the trend of solid passing technique and earned all-conference accolades as a freshman in 1978. Heather Forbes then followed Oakley as the Sun Devils' playmaker. Regina Stahl ranked among the nation's career assist leaders (5,180) when she graduated and guided the Sun Devils to three NCAA berths and eventually received All-America honors in 1986. Stahl's replacement, Noelle Fridrich, continued the strong setting tradition at Arizona State to close out the 1980s. Jennifer Helfrich continued the tradition into the 90s. Sun Devil Tiffannie Johnson-Gates closed out her career by entering the ASU record books ranked fourth in career assists (2,698). Current starting setter Cheryl Anglin has emerged as the No. 2 all-time setter in school history with 3,560 assists.

Offensively, the names of Christine Garner, Webb, Nore, Valentina Vega, Amanda Burbridge, Tracey Barberie, Julia Leddy and Mindy Gowell (now Mindy Rich) are found throughout the record section. A valuable member on the '88, '92 and '96 U.S. Olympic teams, Webb, now Tammy Liley, was one of the most dominating figures on the collegiate scene. Her strength, leaping ability and general knowledge of the game allows her to remain a vital cog of the U.S. National team.

Nore was perhaps the top 'athlete' to play volleyball at ASU, as quickness, power and precise passing made her a feared opponent. She led the country in digs and ranked among the top 20 in kills in 1988, while tallying nearly 1,600 kills and digs during her tenure.

Labeled as one of Arizona State's first prized recruits, Vega finished her career with more than 1,000 kills and 1,000 digs, while playing in three NCAAAs. Like Vega, Barberie provided the Sun Devils with a solid offensive and defensive threat throughout her four-year career. The outside hitter/middle blocker registered 1,032 kills and 1,104 digs, one of only seven players to surpass the 1,000 mark in both categories.

During the 1990's, Christine Garner set herself apart by becoming ASU's all-time kills leader, pounding out an incredible 1,871 kills in her four years. Garner also notched over 1,000 digs and 100 service aces during her career. For her accomplishments, she was named a second-team AVCA All-America in '95. Garner also won a silver medal at the 1994 Goodwill Games.

Amanda Burbridge (1997-2000) is the latest in the line of great Sun Devil volleyball players. Burbridge set the single-season record for kills with 599 in 2000 and was a second-team AVCA All-American. She finished her career with 1,597 career kills, ranking third in ASU history. In addition to being a second-team All-American in 2000, Burbridge was a two-time All-Pac-10 selection and was the AVCA National Player of the Week in 2000 after setting the school single-match record for kills (39) vs. Washington.

In addition to the numerous on-court accolades, ASU has also made an impact with its academic success. Seven student-athletes (Burbridge, Jami Coughlin, Jennifer Helfrich, Mindy Gowell-Rich, Tracie Kiero, Noelle Fridrich) have earned academic All-American awards. Coughlin also ranks second in career digs with 1,528.

The Sun Devils head into the 2004 season with under second-year head coach Brad Saindon and hope to carry the momentum that has seen the program advance to the NCAA Tournament in three of the last five years.

President/Athletic Director

Michael Crow

Michael M. Crow became the 16th president of Arizona State University on July 1, 2002. He is guiding the transformation of ASU into one of the nation's leading public metropolitan research universities, one that is directly engaged in the economic, social, and cultural vitality of its region. Under his direction the university pursues teaching, research, and creative excellence focused on the major intellectual questions of our time, as well as those central to the building of a sustainable environment and economy for Arizona. He has committed the university to global engagement, and to setting a new standard for public service.

Since he took office, ASU has marked a number of important milestones, including the establishment of the Arizona Biodesign Institute; the initiation of many new interdisciplinary research initiatives;

the groundbreaking for new state-of-the-art research facilities; and the announcement of two $50 million gifts, endowing the W. P. Carey School of Business, and the Ira A. Fulton School of Engineering, and a $10 million gift to establish the Virginia G. Piper Center for Creative Writing.

Prior to joining ASU, he was executive vice provost of Columbia University, where he also was professor of science and technology policy in the School of International and Public Affairs. Dr. Crow oversaw Columbia's research enterprise, technology and innovation transfer operations, strategic initiative program, and interdisciplinary program development.

He played the lead role in the creation of the Columbia Earth Institute (CEI), and helped found the Center for Science, Policy and Outcomes (CSPO) in Washington, D.C., a think tank dedicated to linking science and technology to desired social, economic, and environmental outcomes.

He is the author of books and articles relating to the analysis of research organizations, technology transfer, science and technology policy, and the practice and theory of public policy.

Gene Smith

Gene Smith was appointed as Arizona State University's 18th director of athletics on July 27, 2000. Smith arrived at ASU as no stranger to collegiate athletics with a wealth of experience as a Division IA athletic director with previous stints at Iowa State (1993-2000) and Eastern Michigan (1986-93).

Smith's credo? To create student-athlete success academically, athletically and socially.

In his first four years at Arizona State, Smith hit the ground running, starting his own legacy of success in Tempe. He has hired nationally regarded coaches in football, soccer, wrestling, women's golf, water polo and volleyball while directing each of ASU's 22-sports programs, many of which saw unprecedented competitive success the past three years. Smith also oversaw completion of a $30 million capital campaign, which in part funded the construction of the $19 million Ed and Nadine Carson Student-Athlete Center, completed in May, 2002. The state-of-the-art facility affords Arizona State one of the finest student-athlete centers in the country, including perhaps the premier weight room and sports rehabilitation area in the nation.

Smith, who was named the 2003 Division I West Region Athletics Director of the Year by NACDA, has created a winning environment, dedicated to building stronger programs and committed to providing student-athletes the opportunity to be successful academically, athletically and socially. Nearly 60 percent of the 480 Sun Devil student-athletes were Maroon & Gold Scholars in 2003-04, posting at least a one-semester grade-point average of 3.0 while more than 10 percent achieved a perfect 4.0 grade-point. The graduation rate hit a school record, improving 11 percentage points over the highest previous mark and 13 percent higher than the university average.

Smith has a long history of national leadership and service. Since arriving at ASU, Smith has been appointed to the NCAA Infractions Committee, the NCAA Football Rules Committee, the NCAA Administrative Review Committee and the BCS Athletic Director's Advisory Committee. Smith is a member of the Tempe Convention and Visitor's Bureau Board of Directors and the Maricopa County Sports Authority Board of Directors. He also serves on the Fiesta Bowl Board in Tempe. Smith is currently vice president of the Pacific-10 Conference Executive Committee, chair of the Pac-10 Football officiating Committee and a member of the Pac-10 Selection, Athletics Directors' Revenue Sharing, Rose Bowl Management and Bowl (Ad Hoc) committees.

Smith's strong reputation among his peers was affirmed in June, 1994 when the Notre Dame graduate was named president of NACDA. In 1991, Smith was appointed to a four-year term on NACDA's 32-member executive committee. In 1992, he was elected third vice president of NACDA and was named to the Division 1-A Executive Committee. He was elected First Vice President of NACDA in 1993. Smith has also served on the NCAA President's Commission Liaison Committee, the NCAA Executive Committee, the NCAA Men's Basketball Committee and the NCAA Working Committee to Study Basketball Issues. He was appointed to the NCAA's Management Council in May of 1996 and continues to serve on that committee.

Prior to his arrival at Iowa State, Smith served as athletic director at Eastern Michigan University for seven years. Smith joined the EMU staff in 1983 as assistant athletic director for non-revenue sports. He was named interim executive athletic director in 1985 and was elevated to the position permanently on June 25, 1986.

Smith earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Notre Dame in 1977. He earned three varsity football letters as a defensive end at Notre Dame and was a member of the Associated Press 1973 national championship team.

Smith also served as an assistant football coach at Notre Dame from 1977-81, helping to guide the squad to its 1977 undisputed national championship. He then spent two years as a marketing representative for IBM prior to joining the Eastern Michigan staff in April 1983.

Gene and his wife, Sheila, have four children: Matt, Nicole, Lindsey, and Summer, and two grandchildren: Marshall and Steele. Sheila, a 1976 Canadian Olympian in basketball, holds a doctorate in Higher Education Administration and currently serves as Senior Vice President for the ASU Foundation, Deputy Vice President for Development and Special Advisor to the ASU President.

SUN ANGEL FOUNDATION

The Sun Angel Foundation is a support group that has served Arizona State University since 1947. It was officially incorporated as a non-profit agency for the purpose of promoting Sun Devil athletic programs and recently came under the direction of Arizona State's intercollegiate athletics department.

The Foundation seeks to join the energy and resources of business leaders, ASU alumni and members of the Valley community with the goals and objectives of Arizona State University to benefit the community at large. Over the past 55 years, Sun Angels have contributed over $70 million in private funding to ASU Athletics.

Annual contributions from Sun Angel members are the lifeblood of ASU Athletics. Contributions from more than 7,000 members support all of the university's 22 varsity teams and over 480 student-athletes.

The umbrella of the Sun Angel Foundation is large and includes specific clubs that strive to meet the needs of specific programs. The Wings of Gold (women's & Olympic sports), On Deck Circle (baseball) and Slam Dunk Club (basketball) are part of the Sun Angel Foundation and donations to the Sun Angel Foundation can be earmarked for specific programs and purposes.

The support Sun Devil athletics has received from its fans and community in the past is greatly appreciated. The Sun Angel Foundation stands ready to meet its half-century long goal of promoting excellence in both academic and athletic programs while becoming the best collegiate support group in the country. To join the team, call the Sun Angels today at 480-727-7700.
